

No Damage Reported By Missouri 'Quake

Telephone Lines Kept Busy With Inquiries

Sedalia and Pettis County were on a line of earth tremors shortly after 8 p.m. Wednesday. Telephone lines were kept busy at the Sedalia Police Department and in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital office by callers seeking information.

The tremor lasted about a minute, and here in Sedalia, housewives informed the police dishes rattled. Other residents reported table lamps were shaking; others noted the swaying of flowers in pots sitting on pedestals.

In downtown Sedalia several reports were received where large plate glass windows shook and rattled, but none fell from their frames.

In east Sedalia one woman called the police and told them the dishes nearly rattled out of her cupboard; another said she thought her house shook so hard that it might fall in.

A Sedalian reported he was sitting in his chair reading while his wife and several friends were playing cards when his chair began to vibrate.

"I thought it was one of the women who had slipped up behind my chair and was shaking it, but when I looked around I saw they were still gathered around the table. So I figured it might have been a heavy truck passing by on the street," he reported.

At the Whiteman Air Force Base, it was reported they too were receiving many calls from area residents seeking information if it might be a sonic boom, and they reported they had no reports of jet planes in the air in the vicinity.

When the Associated Press was called to see if they too might have heard anything, they had already received calls from the Lake of the Ozarks area, Camdenton, Jefferson City, and Columbia, then the Sedalia call. They had already been called about the same tremor which was reported to have been felt at the northwest outskirts of Kansas City, in Kansas City and in some parts of Kansas City.

No damage was reported to the Sedalia police of property in the city.

City Sued For Damages In Flooding

Donald and Carolyn Benton, the owners and operators of a stenographic service and collection agency at 14th and Olive in southwest Sedalia, seek $5,000 damages and an injunction against the city of Sedalia in a law suit filed Wednesday afternoon in Circuit Court.

The Bentions, who own a one-story duplex office building at the northwest corner of that intersection, claim the city has caused an increased and concentrated flow of surface water to flow onto their premises in damaging and destructive quantities from an area greater than the natural watershed.

As a result, they allege the natural drainage capacity of a ditch along the east side of their property is exceeded resulting in an ever widening and deepening of the ditch. They have been unable to lease the other half of their duplex building or to build an off-street parking area as a result, the Bentions contend.

At the south end of the ditch and the immediate northwest corner of the street intersection, the city has three culverts underneath the street surface, all of which terminate at the south end of the ditch, the Bentions charge, with water from the three discharging onto their property.

The injunction is sought to restrain the city from such collection and discharge of surface waters. J. R. Fritz is attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Benton.

Fritz appeared before the City Council in behalf of his client on Oct. 4 to seek relief of the alleged drainage problem, but the mayor and council told him, in effect at that time, that the matter would have to be taken into court.

The Office of Economic Opportunity is awarding a 24-month $4,300,000 contract to the Training Corporation of America to operate a Job-Corps Center at Excelsior Springs. The center will accommodate 385 young women. The University of Missouri will be a subcontractor. The Democrat-Capital received notification Wednesday from US Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long.

Johnson Leaves Hospital; Given a Full 'Green Light'

Landmark Study Is Near

A preliminary investigation of Sedalia as site for a national landmark designation as the home of ragtime music is to be conducted by the Omaha, Neb. office of the U. S. Park Service, Rep. William J. Randall, 4th Missouri District, advised the Democrat-Capital today.

No date has been set for a visit to Sedalia by the officials, but Rep. Randall said he had talked with the Regional Park service director and that a mutually convenient time for both of them to be here is being worked out.

May Recuperate At Texas Ranch for Several Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, smiling and waving at well-wishers left Bethesda Naval Hospital today at 1:05 p.m. EDT, 13 days after his gall bladder and kidney stone operation.

The President, dressed in a dark blue business suit, walked briskly with Mrs. Johnson beside him.

Before leaving the hospital he visited for a few minutes in a ward where Marines wounded in Viet Nam were under treatment.

"Tell all your families, your wives, your mother and father the President of your country is mighty proud of you," Johnson told the men.

Before he left the hospital, Johnson had been given a new clearance to depart.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers, announcing Johnson's plans, said the President's doctors saw their patient this morning and "they gave him a full green light and he decided to leave."

Johnson was slated for a period of somewhat reduced activity at the White House.

After that he faces weeks of further recuperation, probably most of it at his Texas ranch.

Kennedy Bid To Turn Back Appointment

Asks Further Study By Senate Panel On Morrissey Nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in an emotional speech to the Senate, asked today that Francis X. Morrissey's nomination for a judgeship be sent back to the Judiciary Committee.

Kennedy made his surprise request shortly after the controversial nomination was called up for action in the Senate.

Appearing near tears and his voice breaking at one point, Kennedy said, "I am satisfied that a full and complete record, made with care and deliberation, will uphold my judgment (of Morrissey) to the satisfaction of any fair-minded man."

Kennedy is the chief sponsor of the nomination of Morrissey, an old friend and political associate of his family.

Just before calling the nomination up for action, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen, "It looks close to me."

He said the outcome might hinge on the number of absentees.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, heading the opposition to Morrissey, had himself planned to propose recommitment.

Kennedy told the Senate he is satisfied that a full record will result in Morrissey's confirmation "by a greatly increased majority" and that Morrissey "will be a credit to the federal judiciary."

Morrissey, 55, has been a Boston Municipal Court judge for the last seven years, but his nomination has come under attack on the ground he is not qualified for the federal bench.

Viebrock Bound Over For Trial

A Mora youth charged on a felony warrant with leaving the scene of a fatal car-bicycle accident here on Oct. 2 was bound over for Circuit Court trial following a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court Thursday morning before Judge Frank Armstrong.

Ronald A. Viebrock, 19, is free on $1,000 bond. A trial date in the case is expected to be set at the opening of the next term of Circuit Court, which convenes on Nov. 22.

The Viebrock youth was in the courtroom with his attorney, William F. Brown, but the defense offered no testimony.

Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz called as witnesses for the state, Sedalia Police Officer James Lawson, who investigated the accident at Tower and Heard which claimed the life of 12-year-old Lloyd Wayne Harmon of 503 South Engineer; Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and city Chief of Police William E. Miller, both of whom were present later the day of the accident when Viebrock was questioned and voluntarily signed a written statement.

Officer Lawson testified he and another officer, motorcycle patrolman Robert Vogler, arrived at the scene of the accident almost simultaneously and upon their arrival the car was not present and the fatally injured youngster had been taken to Bothwell Hospital in a private auto. Lawson identified the driver who took the lad to the hospital as Theodore McIntosh, 503 East Jackson, but Lawson said the Harmon youth was dead on arrival at Bothwell.

Lawson said as he was concluding his testimony, (Please turn to Page 8, Col. 7)

Japanese Completes Trio of Winners

Two Americans Win Nobel

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1965 Nobel Prize for physics was awarded today to two Americans and a Japanese, and the prize for chemistry went to another American.

The Royal Swedish Academy of Science announced that the physics award was given jointly to Julian Schwinger of Harvard, Richard Feynman of the California Institute of Technology, and Sin-Itiro Tomonaga of Japan. The three will share equally in the $55,000 prize money.

It announced the chemistry prize of 282,000 kroner (about $55,000) went to Prof. Robert Burns Woodward, also of Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass., a pioneer in synthesis of chlorophyll.

The citation for the three physics winners said the award was for "their fundamental work in quantum electrodynamics, with deep-ploughing consequences for the physics of elementary particles."

Citation for Woodward hailed "his meritorious contribution to the art of organic synthesis."

The academy, made up of 140 Swedish and 108 foreign members, said of the chemistry award:

"Woodward has carried out a number of difficult syntheses of complicated organic compounds within the last two decades. Among those which have commanded considerable attention are his very revealing experiments to build up peptides in the field of protein chemistry and his successful syntheses of sterols, substances that play an important role in the metabolism of the human body."

Prof. Woodward, born in Boston in 1917, began his university studies at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and won a doctor's degree in chemistry in 1937. He became a research worker and teacher at Harvard, a member of the Harvard faculty since 1944, and occupant of the special chair as Donner professor of science since 1960.

The academy said Woodward's peak achievement was in 1961 when he brought about the complete synthesis of chlorophyll, the green matter which gives life and color to leaves and plants. Chlorophyll is the substance which sparked a health craze in the early 1950s when it was being added to everything from tooth paste to shoe cream.

Medicare Kits to Area Residents

300 Persons Check In At Social Security Office

Working round the clock since Sept. 1, Social Security headquarters in Baltimore has completed the mailing of medicare information kits to all of the 15½ million persons 65 and over on the Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefit rolls.

By now, all elderly Social Security or railroad retirement beneficiaries in Benton, Cooper, Henry, Johnson, Morgan, Saline, and Pettis Counties should have received their kits and the application for the supplementary medical insurance part of medicare, Ralph T. Sprague, social security district manager, stated.

ACTRESS Marie "The Body" McDonald was found dead early today in her home in Hollywood. Officers said they were called by Miss McDonald's husband, Donald F. Taylor, who found the body. Taylor, an independent film producer, was the 42-year-old actress' sixth husband. Sheriff's deputies said the circumstances of her death were not known immediately.

Plans 'Bridge' Party

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President O. Meredith Wilson of the University of Minnesota will give a bridge party Saturday on a bridge.

The luncheon will be held on the upper pedestrian level of a just-opened Mississippi River bridge linking the east and west banks of the university. Vehicle traffic will continue below and pedestrian traffic will veer around the buffet area on the wide upper level.

Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, state legislators and others have been invited as part of the university's homecoming weekend.

Wilson said the purpose of the bridge luncheon is to point out to the guests the contrasting views of the east and west banks of the Mississippi as it divides the campus.

Sun Blocks Brilliance Of Comet

HONOLULU (AP) — Blazing Ikeya-Seki, first comet in 83 years bright enough to be seen in daylight, whipped around the sun today and headed back into oblivion.

Astronomers here and on the American mainland watched the celestial spectacle across 93 million miles of space. Its 80,000-mile-diameter head was followed by a streaming 20-million-mile tail.

But its brilliance was mostly overpowered by the sun, which it approached to within 300,000 to 800,000 miles. Not one observer aboard a National Aeronautics and Space Administration jet plane saw the comet.

From the ground, however, Dr. George van Biesbroeck, one of the world's foremost authorities on comets and a member of the airborne NASA expedition, viewed it plainly.

He called it "extremely bright — 1,000 times brighter than the planet Venus."

Clouds blocked Hawaiians' view of the comet late Wednesday, but earlier it could be seen without binoculars, just south of the sun.

The comet left scientists puzzled by several mysteries. Delicate instruments detected internal heat and the presence of sodium, calcium and iron. Comets were believed to be cold and made up of nitrogen gas loosely combined with chunks of rock.

ST. LOUIS—A seismograph recording of earth quake that shook parts of several central states Wednesday night, is examined by Dr. Carl Kisslinger, professor of geophysics at St. Louis University. Dr. Kisslinger said the quake was of significant size and located in eastern Kansas. No injuries or serious damage was reported. (UPI)

Recommended by Missouri Bar Panel

Bid for Nonpartisan Court

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A special committee of the Missouri bar recommended today the nonpartisan court plan be extended to all areas of the state on a local option basis.

The recommendation was part of a report presented to a citizens' conference on Missouri courts. The report, together with suggested constitutional amendments to put it into effect, has been approved by the bar's board of governors.

At present the nonpartisan court plan covers only the Supreme and appellate courts and the circuit and probate courts in Jackson County and the city of St. Louis.

Efforts to get the legislature to extend it to St. Louis County have failed repeatedly.

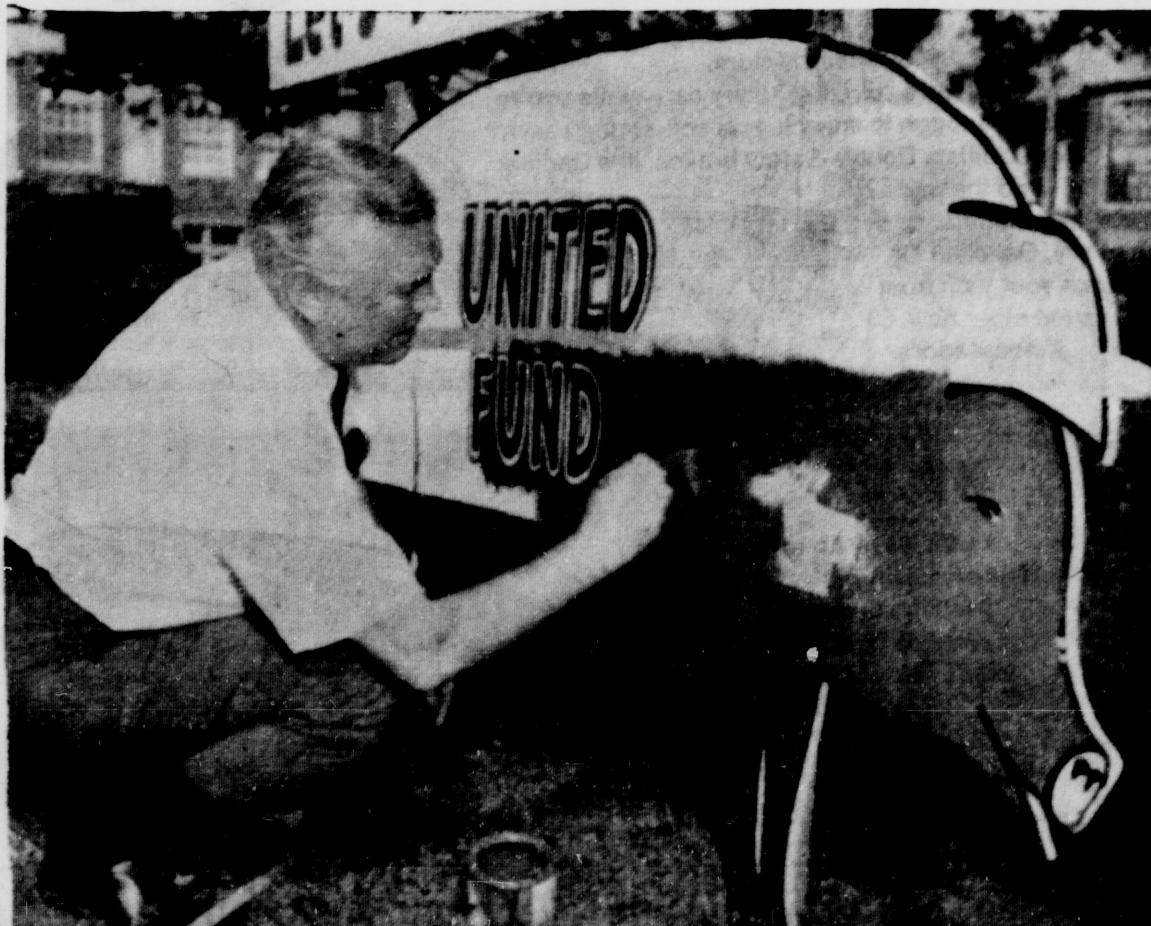

Under the local option plan, it could be extended to magistrate, probate and circuit courts in any part of the state if the voters approved. It would not cover municipal courts.

The proposal could get on the ballot by petition signed by 1,000 voters in counties over 75,000 population and by 100 voters in smaller counties.

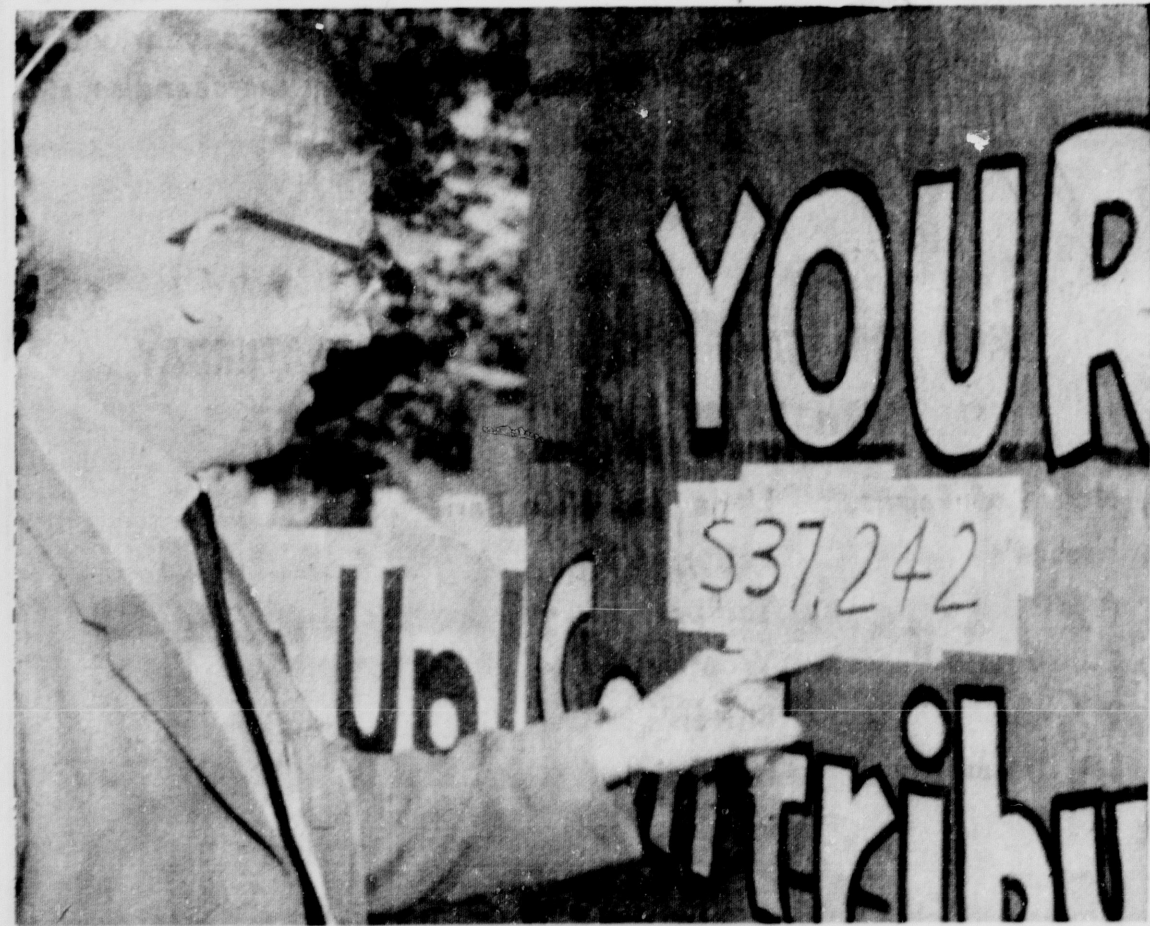

The bar also recommended: Permissive retirement of judges at 65 after 12 years of service and mandatory retirement (Please turn to page 8, col. 5)

Against Customers

Banker Hits IRS Tactics In Employing Levy System

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Gordon W. Warren, president of the Pulaski Bank of Richland, a town of 1,660 in the Missouri Ozarks, told U.S. Senate investigators how he stopped the Internal Revenue Service from dipping into the accounts of two of his customers.

The government process is called a "levy," and it's used to collect from taxpayers who have failed to pay up. Warren complained about it Wednesday at the final session of a three-day hearing held in Kansas City by a Senate investigating committee.

In one case, Warren said, an IRS agent showed up with a levy for $2.35 on the account of a prominent Richland businessman. Warren said he sent the agent across the street to the man's place of business, where he got his money.

Warren said he paid from his own pocket a levy of $14.92 on the account of a farmer. He said he got his money back the next time the farmer came to town. But he couldn't stop the IRS from invoking a levy of $291.06 on the account of a small business in Richland. Because it had only $170.65 in the bank, Warren had to freeze the account. It left his customer with two bouncing checks. Warren said he suggested the Internal Revenue agent go 600 feet down the street to talk to the man about it, but the agent refused. As it turned out, he said, the man didn't owe the $291.06.

"Maybe I'm a flag raiser," Warren told the committee, "but these people down in my area don't oppose our fighting in Viet Nam or burn their draft cards. They deserve better treatment than that."

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., chairman of the subcommittee, responded:

"There's nothing wrong with being a flag waver. This is just another example of how over-zealous agents take their jobs too seriously and forget about people's feelings. Only a minority are guilty of this."

Warren reported an IRS agent once demanded to see the records of a customer's account and threatened Warren with a $10,000 fine and imprisonment if he told the customer. Warren said he stuck to his policy of not permitting an inspection until the customer is notified and got confirmation from his lawyer that there is no law against this.

The agent was identified as Roy Horn of St. Louis. Sen. Long said Horn was "one of the OCD boys," assigned from the IRS when it and the FBI made a concerted drive on organized crime (OCD) several years ago.

Jack G. Nicholson, a Kansas City tax consultant, told the committee that only once in 27 years has he had rough treatment from the IRS.

"I've talked to a lot of people who now think every agent connected with the IRS is about as low as a person can get," he said. "I don't believe this is the opinion these hearings should convey."

Sen. Long said the committee's purpose is to point out some of the over-zealous tactics of a small number of agents.

One of the witnesses Wednesday was Noel Smith of Taylor, Mo., who described himself as an ordinary farmer but also told of buying $250,000 worth of construction equipment entirely on credit and making a million dollars in a year on contracting.

Tractor Accident Injuries Are Fatal

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Injuries suffered when he was pinned by a tractor Oct. 7 proved fatal Wednesday to Ernest C. Walliser, 71, of Stark City, Mo. He died in a Springfield hospital.

The accident occurred on his farm when he got off the tractor to open a gate. Walliser, a retired Kansas City postal worker who lived alone, was not found until almost two days after the accident.

jobs as far away as Canada and Montana.

He accused the IRS of falsifying bank records, stealing his grain and wrecking his storage bins. The IRS once had a $570,000 jeopardy assessment against him when it contemplated charging him with fraud and imposing fraud penalties.

After clearing himself of the fraud allegations and winning several rounds in court, Smith said, he settled with the IRS for $54,000 and subsequently has received about $20,000 in rebates for overpayment.

Donald B. Cunningham, former owner of a tavern just outside the main gate at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., recited a long contest with the IRS over whether or not he should pay cabaret taxes. After he paid a $1 fine on a plea of guilty, he said, the IRS started working on him about two years in which he acknowledged he had paid no income tax.

He said the IRS sold his tavern, his liquor license and his car, seized $15,000 insurance money when his house burned and is still after him.

Sen. Long said the committee has no present plans to inquire further into wire tapping by the FBI.

The committee heard evidence Wednesday that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. installed special full-time circuits at eight locations in Kansas City where the FBI presumably attached listening devices.

Sen. Long said it was the first time the committee has heard testimony about the FBI using wiretaps. He also said his committee does not have enough staff to investigate the FBI.

"We will sit down and go into this later and reach a decision on whether we should expand our investigation to include this," Long said.

All Profits In Fortune To Homeless

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Her spare time and modest savings were the assets Miss Ettie Lee used to start a $3-million fortune—all the profits from which she spends on homeless boys.

Miss Lee, 79, a retired Los Angeles school teacher, and an aunt of Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, earned the money investing in real estate over the past 35 years. All her profits go to the Ettie Lee Homes Inc., the 14 ranches for boys she maintains. She lives on her teacher's pension.

Her explanation: "As a teacher, I noticed quite a pattern in boys having difficulties. They were boys who didn't have a good home situation."

"This is a man's world. It takes a man to develop a boy into a man. Ninety per cent of the boys in trouble were from homes where there was no strong male figure in their lives."

"I tried to find homes for these boys, but I was unsuccessful. I made up my mind then that I'd have to be like the little red hen and do the job myself."

This meant she'd need plenty of money, and she never made more than $300 a month as a teacher. But she saved what she could.

Her first real estate deal came in 1930, when she paid $1,000 for a lot in the Wilshire district.

"I sold it two years later for $5,000," she recalls.

Then she began looking for larger investments.

"I must have bought and sold 50 apartment houses since I started operating," she said.

By 1950—four years after she retired from teaching—she had enough resources for her project. She says that when she dies her estate will go to continuing the projects.

Miss Lee said it cost from $40,000 to $50,000 to build each home.

Miss Lee hires Mormon couples—her own faith—to run the homes, which, however, are nondenominational. Each houses 10 to 12 boys 12 to 17 years of age.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't people keep their mouths shut when they don't know what they are talking about? My niece was married last year. Lorraine had a beautiful white wedding. If ever a girl deserved to wear white she did. Lorraine had such a saintly quality about her that if anyone said "hell" in her presence they felt ashamed. Lorraine became pregnant on her honeymoon. The baby was born three days short of nine months. The tongues wagged all over town and everyone was busy counting. The word got around that the baby was "a little early." One woman who didn't realize I was sitting behind her at a ladies aid meeting whispered to the person next to her, "Lorraine of ALL people, it just goes to show you can never tell about ANYBODY."

Will you please explain to these ignorant busybodies that a baby can be born any time in the ninth month? Thank you.—MAD AUNT.

Dear Aunt: Of course, babies can be born anytime in the ninth month, but busybodies don't WANT an explanation. They'd rather talk. Now is a good time to remember that the Lord gave us two ears so all the rubbish we hear can go in one and out the other.

Dear Ann Landers: I am book-keeper and cashier in an office which employs 20 people. I am responsible for the petty cash. Usually there's about $35 in the petty cash drawer. In the last six months every time I've checked the drawer it has been short. Certain people have fallen into the habit of borrowing anywhere from 25c to $5. The borrowers used to put in IOU slips, but they don't bother anymore. Every week I have to go around and ask who is in hock to the drawer. At the moment there's an $11 shortage which I can't account for.

Two people are on vacation and one is out sick.

If you have a solution I'd like to hear it.—J.

Dear J.: A petty cash drawer, into which anyone may dip when he has the shorts, is an engraved invitation to steal.

Such a set-up is a poor one for both the employees and the company. Call in all "loans" and announce that in the future only one person will have access to the drawer — YOU. Then keep the cash locked up and relax.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl and my parents won't let me grow up. THEIR parents let them grow up. Why won't they do as much for me?

I am now a freshman in high school. My mother has arranged with my dad to leave the car in the morning and drive to work with a neighbor so SHE can chauffeur me to and from school. Ann, I don't want to be chauffeured to and from school. It's only 10 minutes by bus and on a nice day I can walk. But no, she insists it is her duty.

I have begged for an alarm clock of my own for two years but my mother says "No. I will get you up." She picks out the clothes she wants me to wear every day. If I select my own she is hurt.

Can you get to the nitty gritty of this and give me some help? I am—LIKE SUFFOCATING.

Dear Like: Your signature is an apt one. The word suffocating is a synonym for being smothered—and you are. Your mother is not giving you room to breathe and grow.

A 15-year-old girl should be allowed to get to school and back on her own. She should be permitted to select her own clothes. And finally, she should be able to get out of bed in the morning without help.

If you think it will do some good, show this column to your mother. If you DON'T think it will help, show it to her anyway. You may be agreeably surprised.

Only One Door In Life Can Be Opened With Confidence

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is the opening of many doors. One often opens them with trepidation, because they lead to situations one may never have faced before.

But there is a single door one may open without fear, confident of what lies on the other side. That is the door of memory. For most of us it becomes an increasing pleasure to open that door more often and take a restful mental stroll back down time's past corridor.

You've had a pretty long walk can remember when—

People bragged about having shaken the hand of John L. Sullivan, the heavyweight boxing champion.

Every fat man thought he looked slimmer in a vest and a double-breasted jacket.

A fellow never had to borrow money from his wife for his midday meal if he worked near a saloon that served a free lunch.

Most American homes still had mice in them.

Before the era when basements were turned into "rum-pus rooms" they were often called "storm cellars."

You knew a girl was ready for matrimony when she started learning how to knit a pair of men's socks.

Anyone who had to have a blood transfusion worried about whether it would cause him to assume the personality of the donor.

Every firehouse had a Dalmatian dog, and it was usually called "Spot."

The only Americans who regularly cooked their meals outdoors in summer were the residents of hobo jungles.

Only children believed in Santa Claus.

The owner of a new automobile didn't mind getting a scratch on the fender so much as he did a tear in the car's isinglass curtains.

In 1926 Gertrude Ederle, whose dad owned a delicatessen, swam the English Channel—and came home to the great-

Correct Difficulty In Duke's Eye

NEW YORK (AP) — A small break in the retina of the Duke of Windsor's right eye has been repaired in a hospital, and the team of eye specialists who did the work say the difficulty should not recur.

The 30-minute repair was done Wednesday at the Eye Institute of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center.

The 71-year-old former king of England should be able to leave the medical center by the end of this week, the hospital said. He was admitted Wednesday.

Many a widow managed to eke out a living in prohibition days by selling home brew in her kitchen.

A chocolate soda with two dips of ice cream sold for 15 cents.

Children in a large family argued over which had to go first in the regular Saturday night bath lineup. Each one wanted to put off the ordeal and be last.

Cameraman Recalls Ideals Of Friend Slain By Cong

EDITOR'S NOTE — Humbert R. Versace of Baltimore, Md., was a soldier who dreamed of being a Maryknoll missionary. He was captured by the Viet Cong, held captive almost two years, and then executed. This recollection of Capt. Versace was written by Horst Faas, the Pulitzer Prize-winning AP photographer, for the Ledger-Star of Norfolk, Va., where Versace once lived.

By HORST FAAS
Associated Press Photographer
When I met Capt. Humbert R. Versace for the first time, in 1963, it was in a hot, sticky room in the small U.S. compound in Camau, where a handful of American advisers spent their night, surrounded by barbed wire and protected by a few Vietnamese militiamen.

I had come back late in the evening from a military operation with Vietnamese troops and Versace was my host. My uniform was muddy and wet.

Versace had given me some of his dry underwear. Water from a monsoon downpour was dripping down the walls and Versace and I tried to beat off the swarms of mosquitoes.

Versace had lived like this for more than a year.

He appeared to me to be like some of the missionaries I had met in the Congo. A family photo and an assortment of books were on a table, all wrapped in plastic to keep them from falling apart in the dripping wet humidity. I noticed the Bible, Mao Tse-tung's writings in pocket-book form, and a Vietnamese edition of Glaspell's "People's War," the classic on guerrilla warfare.

Versace was looking just like many of the young American captains and lieutenants in that year of 1963 who tried with all courage and sincerity to do the best in their jobs as "advisers."

Like all of them, he had this fresh, youthful, open approach and optimism. But Versace seemed more sincere, more of a thinker than a soldier. I do not remember him joking or laughing during the many hours of talk we had this night in October 1963.

Versace had served for a year as intelligence officer for the Military Advisory and Assistance Group in Camau Province. He came from a language school. After a year, the Vietnamese paid him the compliment of not only speaking to him in Vietnamese, but in the southern dialect.

Camau Peninsula, and especially the area where Versace worked, the Xuyen Province, was then and still is one of the worst Viet Cong areas in Viet Nam. In this province, the American soldier was definitely not welcome. Vietnamese soldiers were reluctant to take Americans along because they knew the presence of an American made them, too, a more desirable target for the Viet Cong.

Viet Cong brutality and terror were at their worst here against the few people who still supported the Saigon government.

Versace had seen horrors every day during his year of duty. But he did not seem to have any hate against the merciless enemy. He explained to me that our secret weapon should be to understand the Viet Cong, to try to find out his motives and learn his way of thinking — to explain our ideas to him so that he could understand us in his language and in the twisted terms of his indoctrinated mind.

He said he did his best to teach his Vietnamese friends to kill and stay alive. But he thought that his mission as an adviser was also to understand both friend and foe.

Versace seemed convinced that the majority of the Viet Cong followers were misled by false ideals. His great idea was to make the Vietnamese aware that Americans in Viet Nam were not there to kill off half of the South Vietnamese people because they erroneously followed ideals that were misinterpreted by the Communists.

He wanted Americans to be examples of a soldier-missionary who brings an end finally to the seemingly endless killing with the power of a new ideal.

He did not believe in carrying a weapon on operations except for a hidden pistol. He wanted to show the oppressed people in Camau that he came to them with the Vietnamese troops to tell them about the better life he offered.

Vietnamese soldiers looked at him in surprise and military men working with him did not approve.

Two days later, we flew to a Special Forces outpost, a heavily fortified camp along a canal — triangular with bunkers and barbed wire. There were 400 rough-tough Vietnamese militiamen and 12 American Special Forces men.

Versace went there to talk to prisoners. One of the prisoners was hanged on a tree near the camp as an example to the Viet Cong and hostile people living opposite the camp and along the canal.

I went to this post of Thanh Phyl to accompany a patrol. The patrol went out in the morning. Versace went with the first — the lead company. Some three kilometers from the camp, the patrol was ambushed.

The formation, moving along a slippery canal bank, overgrown with jungle, broke up. Some 50 soldiers died, about 100 were wounded or missing. Three Americans, including Versace, were missing. One Vietnamese went back and said that he saw Versace wounded and bloodied in the head, but firing. He said the Viet Cong jumped on him and took him away.

The next day the Viet Cong spread rumors about the presence of their prisoners. Government troops heard reports that Versace and the others were seen to the North, and then to the South, of the ambush site. The Viet Cong deliberately confused our rescue mission.

For two days, some 40 helicopters and a battalion of troops checked out the reports. They took casualties. Reports about the American prisoners were more and more confusing.

On Oct. 31, the rescue operation was suddenly terminated. The troops were called back. The coup d'etat against the Diem government had begun. Diem was overthrown and killed Nov. 1, 1963. The troops never tried a rescue again.

There were frequent reports about Versace all around the delta. He was seen led through villages with a rope around his neck, on exhibition for the villagers.

He was seen on his knees, forced to speak slogans. One report I saw said that he was in tears when a Vietnamese woman gave him a piece of chicken.

Versace must have lived through hell, because he lived two years in an area bombed daily by American planes as a free bombing zone.

A few weeks ago, Vietnamese officers told me they had learned that he lived in a cage in the swampy U Minh headquarters of delta units of the Viet Cong.

Then the paper Nhan Dan, in Hanoi, North Viet Nam, reported that he had been put to death.

Vogelsmeier-Hall Wedding Held Sept. 25

Arrangements of white chrysanthemums graced the altar of Sweet Springs Methodist Church for the seven o'clock Saturday evening Sept. 25 marriage of Miss Susan Kay Hall, to Mr. John Carlton Vogelsmeier.

The Rev. James Young read the double ring ceremony for Miss Hall, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall, Sweet Springs, and the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Vogelsmeier, Sweet Springs, in a candlelight setting.

Mrs. Robert Guier played traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Stanley Small, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage at the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned of white silk organza with fitted bodice. The dainty oval neckline and elbow length sleeves were edged with lace. Re-embroidered Alencon lace, with tiny pearls, formed the waistline in a loose peplum effect, with a narrow belt run through, and covered a wide panel down the skirt front. The back of the skirt ended in an aisle wide train. Her headpiece was a crown of pearls and Alencon lace, from which her veil fell in graceful folds. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Candles were lighted by Miss Mary Vogelsmeier, Sweet Springs, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. Jimmy Hall, brother of the bride. Miss Vogelsmeier wore a viva pink taffeta dress with fitted velvet bodice and bell skirt, with matching viva crown and illusion veil.

Rings were carried to the altar by Master Bobby Vollrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vollrath, Kingsville, cousin of the bride.

Attired in beige lace the mother of the bride selected accessories of brown and a corsage of pink roses. The mother crepe dress with accessories to match. Her corsage was also of pink roses.

At a reception in the recreation room of the church after the ceremony, a traditional three tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table. Serving were Mrs. George Wilson, Raytown, Mrs. Larry Loges and Mrs. Larry Zimmerschied, both of Sweet Springs. The guest book was attended by Mrs. David Jacobs, Sweet Springs.

The couple left for a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks. The bride chose a red wool knit suit with black accessories for traveling. Her corsage was white chrysanthemum.

Constructing a Terrarium

Terrariums—gardens enclosed in glass—are fun to make and easy to care for.

Any glass container that transmits light may be used—a globe, fish tank, or large snifter.

Also, almost any house plant is suitable, especially those that like a high humidity. Plants most commonly used are African violet, maranta, begonia, coleus, croton, dracaena, ivy, peperomia, philodendron, pothos, and wandering Jew. But you can let your imagination be your guide and select any variety that will help make an interesting display.

As for actual construction, the U. S. Department of Agriculture gives the following step-by-step instructions in its booklet on "Selecting and Growing House Plants."

Place a 1-inch layer of gravel, pebbles, broken flower pots, or charcoal in the bottom of the container. Dig moss from the woods and line the sides of the terrarium below the intended soil level, placing the mossy side against the glass. Prepare a soil mixture of equal parts of garden soil, sand, and peat moss—enough for a layer 1½ to 2 inches deep. Mound the soil to one side of the container to make a slope.

Use a long pair of tweezers, or sticks tied to tweezers, to put the plants in place. Try to avoid getting soil on the leaves. After the plants are in, clean the leaves with a dry brush. Then spray the plants and soil lightly with water.

Cover the container with a sheet of glass or piece of plastic film.

Place the terrarium in a location where it has bright light but never any direct sunlight. Turn terrarium occasionally so plants will be straight. Keep terrarium out of direct sunlight.

It will heat the air inside and kill the plants.

New Fashions in Faucets

Single-control faucets are no longer novelties, but the list of their benefits continues to grow. One advantage is that they help to conserve water—an especially timely feature in areas faced with water scarcity or actual drought.

Since these convenient faucets can be turned off tight, there is less possibility of wasteful dripping. Some such faucets perform another conservation feature by holding the water temperature. Single-control faucets can even be pre-regulated so no water needs to be wasted during the "adjustment period."

When showering, for example, just adjust the temperature, wet the body, turn off the water, and lather up. Then you can turn on the water to rinse off, knowing it will automatically begin to flow again at the chosen temperature. Single-control faucets (in lever, knob, and dial styles) can be adjusted with just two fingers of one hand—using one motion to regulate the flow and another to regulate the temperature. Some such faucets can even be regulated with an elbow or forearm—a convenience to busy homemakers because it is easier to wash dishes and bathe baby when both hands remain free for action. This convenience also applies to shampooing, which usually involves turning the water on and off frequently.

And let's not forget the children. When they discover it is both easy and fun to operate that single control, they are more likely to enjoy washing hands and faces as often as you would like them to do! Automatic temperature control also reduces any possibility of accidental scalding.

With all these attractions—plus such optional accessories as detergent dispensers and spray brushes for washing dishes, it is no wonder that single-control faucets continue to become more popular in both kitchens and bathrooms.

When Household "Red Lights" Flash

There are safety signals to be observed in running a household, just as in driving a car. Learn to recognize household "red lights" which warn of dangers that can threaten the family's well-being. For example, a "red light" in the kitchen may be a grease splash on the floor—which invites a slip and fall. So when you see it, stop—and scrub!

The normal traffic patterns of daily living can create new hazards, so the homemaker must be alert instead of assuming that yesterday's "safe" house will remain safe. Any of the following "red lights" may flash as you go about your housework, so make sure you don't run right through them to risk catastrophe.

Crumbs in the oven. Fire Commissioners warn that food crumbs have caused major fires. It seems such a small chore to wipe out the oven with a damp, sudsy sponge. Yet failure to take this little precaution, right after the meal, can cause real trouble later when the oven is relighted and forgotten bits of dried food ignite.

Slippery step—stool. Make it part of the daily KP routine to swab the steps with hot soap or detergent suds, then rinse and dry them thoroughly. Only clean surfaces provide safe footing.

Dust-dimmed light bulbs and fixtures. Keep them clean with a sudsy wiping, so you can prepare food and wash dishes under adequate light. Guessing in dim light is no substitute for knowing that food and utensils are clean and safe. Take the same precautions with all reading lights—especially those which the children use for studying.

Sliding scatter rugs. The undersides of these potential back-breakers should be scrubbed occasionally with dense suds to remove dust and wax. Only clean backing can grip the floor securely.

Jumbled medicine cabinet. Remove contents, then wash shelves and containers with hot suds and rinse water. Replace jars and bottles, making sure that labels are wiped clean so they can be read by sleepy eyes during a night time emergency. For safety, dispose of "stale" drugs.

Heating pad cover. Always launder the removable slip cover in hot suds and hot rinse water after use by an ill member of the household. Pressing it with a hot iron is an added

Draftees Are Going To Marines

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Drill Instructors of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot are preparing for company: The draftees are coming.

For the first time since the Korean War the Marine Corps, traditionally a volunteer outfit, is turning to Selective Service to help expand the corps by 30,000 men.

Preparations are being made for the arrival next month of the first of the November quota of 4,050 draftee Marines.

The draftees won't know they're on their way here until they're assigned, by lottery, at the time of induction. The November call is for a draft of 36,450. Eight out of nine men will go to the Army, the ninth to the Marines.

Easterners will go to the recruit depot at Parris Island, S.C., the rest here.

Here's what they'll find at San Diego:

Training will be accelerated. Boot camp has been cut from 12 to 8 weeks. Recruit companies will be bigger, with as many as 86 men, instead of the old average of 70. The number of DI's is being increased 40 per cent.

Each company will have a platoon commander and two DI assistants. Physical training, always rigorous, will be reduced by 18½ hours.

"I think the eight-week schedule covers it all," said Sgt. Paul Lennen, 24, a recruit platoon commander, after graduating his first eight-week class. "It keeps them moving faster. But I have less time to work with them. Less time for their problems."

Many of the new boot camp graduates are told they'll be headed for Viet Nam after three weeks' infantry training at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Rent Subsidy Bill Future Is Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's controversial rent subsidy program is still alive after a victory in the Senate. But it faces an uncertain future.

Wednesday the Senate narrowly approved funds to launch the program this year.

Today House conferees are expected to try to torpedo the program in a meeting with Senate conferees on the catch-all money bill that includes $360,000 for the first year of rent supplements.

Eventually, under terms of the bill, the government would be authorized to provide $12 million in federal grants to help low-income families pay their rents.

The House voted 185-162 last week against providing funds for the program this year. But the Senate Appropriations Committee put the money back and the Senate in two roll-call votes Wednesday went along.

A Republican-led effort to eliminate payments this year failed 45-37. Then, a Republican-led drive to cut the program in half was beaten 41-37.

The Senate then made several minor changes in the $4,867,248-103 appropriation bill, the last of the year, and passed it by voice vote.

The conference committee will try to reconcile the bill with a House version which provided $4,214,429,610. The Senate bill is larger because a number of administration requests were sent to Capitol Hill after the House Appropriations Committee ended its hearings.

Besides rent supplements, the bill provides funds to support a number of key administration programs, among them aid to higher education, highway beautification, antipollution, regional medical centers, water and air pollution control and vocational rehabilitation.

The rent program would guarantee nonprofit organizations that rent property the difference between 25 per cent of the occupant's income and the rent of the unit.

Only families eligible for public housing could take advantage of the program. None of the subsidy payments would go to private landlords.

Ranchers Monopolize Judging Honors

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Ranchers from Gunnison, Colo., monopolized the honors Wednesday in the judging of carload lots of fitted cattle in the annual stocker and feeder event at the American Royal Live Stock Show.

Buffington Hereford Ranch won the grand championship and Virgil and Lee Span won the reserve championship.

More than 13,000 stocker and feeder cattle entered in the show were up for auction today.

Three Women Report Purses 'Lightened'

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Three women reported to police their purses were lightened by $83 Wednesday night while they were participating in a meeting of TOPS — Take Off Pounds Sensibly.

They said they left their purses backstage while appearing on a program for about 300 in the assembly room at the auditorium of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints at its headquarters in Independence.

Colleges To Benefit From Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Johnson an education bill that would give the nation's colleges a $2,387,000,000 shot in the arm while establishing three landmark programs.

The measure far exceeds the President's recommendations, but he is expected to sign it and set in motion for the first time in the nation's history:

1. A program of federal scholarships to help young people from low-income families attend college.

2. A system of federally insured state and private loans to assist college students from middle-income families.

3. The dispatch of a National Teacher Corps to poverty-stricken areas in a bootstrap attempt to lift education standards.

The Teacher Corps was the major item in dispute as the bill made its final run Wednesday through Congress.

A Republican attempt to drop the corps from the legislation failed in the House 226-152. The House then passed the bill by a vote of 312-63. A few hours later the Senate gave it voice-vote approval.

Most of the programs included in the authorization would be covered for three years.

For the first year $851 million would be authorized, almost 3½ touch with the Social Security district office in Sedalia, he reported. But many others still need to take action to protect their medicare rights.

Eight out of ten aged persons will be reached through the mass mailing, he noted. About one-third of those who will not be reached this way are receiving old-age assistance payments and will hear directly from their local welfare agencies.

Another third are still working fulltime and will need to file social security applications. About one million will also have to get in touch with their local social security district office.

The enrollment period for those who will be 65 or over before the end of the year closes March 31, 1966, Sprague pointed out.

The March 31 deadline is very important, Sprague stressed. Everyone who is 65 or will be by Jan. 1, 1966, must return the medical insurance enrollment card by that date—whether received in the mail or picked up at a social security district office, if he wants full protection when the program goes into effect July 1, 1966.

The Sedalia district office has installed an automatic answering and recording telephone for after-hour calls. Those people who are working and cannot call the office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. may call at any time after 5 p.m. and leave their phone number and address with instructions as to when and where they may be contacted. "Our goal," Sprague stated, "is to make sure everyone age 65 and over has an opportunity to enroll in the Medicare program."

For the housebound, the district office will make arrangements to have a social security representative pay a visit to them at home.

The Sedalia district office is located at 1806 West 11th Street. The phone number is TA 7-0450.

NJ Election Could End Traditions

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey chooses a governor and new legislature Nov. 2 in an election that could end several political traditions.

The Democrats are within sight of a peak of political dominance they have not occupied since Woodrow Wilson's term as governor half a century ago.

New Jersey was considered a Republican state only a dozen years ago. But weakened by primary fights, election losses and anemic finances, the Republicans are underdogs in this year's race for governor and are no better than even money to hold on to the newly reappointed legislature.

Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes is seeking a second four-year term. Polls by both parties show him comfortably ahead. If he wins, it will be the fourth term in a row for the Democrats, the longest reign by either party in the 20th century.

Wayne Dumont Jr., a 14-year veteran of the state Senate, is trying to stop the Democratic streak. A 51-year-old lawyer from one of the state's few remaining rural counties, he won a less-than-resounding endorsement from the GOP in a complicated screening committee procedure followed by a close primary election victory. Twice before he had lost Republican gubernatorial primary elections.

Dumont emphasizes discussion of such things as taxes, colleges, the drought and what he calls Hughes' lack of leadership. He accuses Hughes of wasteful spending and failing to take the lead in raising large amounts of money both he and Hughes agree the state needs.

He has come up with one issue that has emotional impact—Prof. Eugene Genovese of Rutgers, the state university. Genovese told a "teach-in" last April that he would welcome a Viet Cong victory in Vietnam. Dumont called for dismissal of Genovese and a "sleeper" issue was born.

Hughes emphasizes his agreement with U.S. policy in Viet Nam but has declined to force Rutgers to fire Genovese. He said it would violate academic freedom.

Hughes admits the Genovese issue will cost him votes.

Hughes, 56, is a former judge who won an upset victory in 1961 over the late James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor in the Dwight D. Eisenhower Cabinet. A remarried widower with 10 children and the state's first Roman Catholic governor, Hughes is running this year in a more restrained version of his usual peppery platform style.

Both Hughes and Dumont represent a sharp break with New Jersey's past in one major respect—both advocate a big, new statewide tax. Dumont has supported a sales tax for years. Hughes came out for an income tax two years ago.

Knob Noster 5-Star Phase Given Appraisal

Holmes, assistant director of the travel and recreation division of Commerce and Industrial Development was in Knob Noster recently and discussed that phase of community betterment with Mrs. E. O. Price, Knob Noster community betterment chairman, and George Taraba, chairman of leisure time activities committee.

In order to qualify, Knob Noster needs approximately five acres of park area, with one picnic table, two benches, and one fireplace for each 300 population. The park should have shelter and comfort stations, swings, slides, jungle gyms and semi-active criteria.

"Reach For a Star" is the theme for the second annual Community Betterment awards banquet and conference to be Nov. 10-11 at Jefferson City. Anyone may attend these conferences, said Mrs. Price, and she may be contacted for further details.

Area Fires

A large barn on a farm owned by Edmond Guier, located about 1.2 miles west of State Route 127 on County Highway MM, and east of Dunksburg, was destroyed by fire sometime after 7 p.m. Wednesday. Guier discovered the fire about 8:20 p.m. and notified Sheriff Emmett Fairfax who made an investigation.

The fire had practically destroyed the barn before discovered and a call for the Pettis County Fire Department was not made.

The barn was about 34 by 60 feet and contained approximately 300 bushels of oats, a large quantity of corn and some other contents, all lost in the fire.

Sheriff Fairfax said the cause of the fire was undetermined, but there was no electric wiring to the barn and the farm property was vacant. He said it was possible the fire might have been started by vandals.

'Eagle' Show Something Of Specialty

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Eagle in a Cage," NBC's 90-minute dramatic program Wednesday night, was one of those fictionalized biographical essays of which the "Hall of Fame" series has made something of a specialty.

This one focused on Napoleon Bonaparte's dismal six years of final exile on St. Helena, alone, some, ailing, recalling past glories and surrounded by a few bickering, jealous men who hoped to ride his coattails back to power.

As usual, the program was beautifully produced and rich in handsome, authentic detail. Unfortunately, Trevor Howard's Napoleon never came alive. He was neither a human—a fallen monarch pathetically beating against the invisible bars of the island prison—nor the larger-than-life force that had made him a general at 24 and an emperor at 35.

Napoleon was 46 when he reached the end at St. Helena, but Howard played him as a much older man. Worse, he portrayed him as a posturing, pompous megalomaniac given to outbursts of arrogance followed by moments when he seemed either childlike or senile.

A strange little inconclusive threat ran through the vignettes—the mutual affection, which was perhaps a little more, between the deposed emperor and a 15-year-old English girl on the island. The girl Betsy, played by young Pamela Franklin, called him "Bony," confided to him her girlish dreams and set him to mourning his lost youth and bygone power.

The cast, obviously, had an acting field day. Howard stomped about broodingly, one hand tucked in his vest and delivered resoundingly such lines as "He who has only seen an eagle in a cage has never seen an eagle" and "History is a lie agreed upon."

James Daly, another fine actor, had a dandy time clanking about in the uniform of a British naval officer of the period and speaking in a rich Irish brogue. The original script by Millard Lampell was another of those worthy, well-intentioned efforts, loaded with quality. It makes a viewer feel almost guilty when he yearns for some more substance and a nicely paced plot to go along with it.

Am. War Mothers Install Mrs. Lawson

Mrs. Rosetta Lawson was installed president of the American War Mothers at a meeting in the Missouri State Bank Building.

A report was made of the 44th state convention held in Springfield at which Mrs. Edna Crouch, 665 East 11th Street, was elected treasurer. Mrs. Lawson was a delegate. Also attending were Mrs. Tess Hogan, Mrs. Nell Delph and Mrs. Laura Riley.

Proceeds from the recent Ozark Opry show, sponsored by the group, will be used to aid veterans and their families.

Viebrock

ducting the early investigation at the scene some teenage girls volunteered the information that Viebrock was the driver of the car involved and that he was accompanied by the Harmon boy. Lawson said the Harmon boy's bicycle was found 49 feet from what officers determined was the point of impact with the auto.

Viebrock was arrested a short time later after officers had come upon his wrecked 1965 auto on Route U about five miles southeast of the city where it had struck a utility pole.

The statement signed by Viebrock before Sheriff Fairfax and Chief of Police Miller was admitted as evidence by Prosecutor Fritz. In it Viebrock told of losing control of his auto in loose gravel at the scene of the accident southeast of town, hitching a ride back to town and then returning to the scene with a brother. Viebrock was arrested at that time by Sgt. Glenn Means of the Highway Patrol.

Chief of Police Miller testified a chrome letter "O" was found by officers at the scene of the accident at Tower and Heard and the letter was missing from the word Ford on the front of Viebrock's car at the mishap on Route U.

In the statement from Viebrock, which Fritz read into the record, the youth told of taking a companion, Joe Coomes, to the home of the latter's girlfriend near the scene of the accident. After Coomes had returned to the auto and they drove away, Viebrock said he "saw a red flash go across in front of me" and the hood of the auto flew up.

Viebrock said in the statement that he "panicked." Coomes and another boy and girl in the auto

Eight States Feel Effects Of Tremor

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A moderately strong earthquake rumbled across the Midwest Wednesday night, shaking at least eight states. No injuries or serious damage were reported, but a scientist said the quake would have been disastrous if it had been centered in a city.

The quake started at 9:01 p.m. and lasted for 14 minutes on the seismograph at St. Louis University. However, residents of Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee felt it only for a few seconds.

Dr. Carl Kisslinger, chairman of the geophysics department at St. Louis University, said the quake was recorded at between 4.5 and 5 on the Richter scale. The disastrous Alaskan earthquake of 1964 hit 8.4 on the scale.

"There's no doubt about it," said Kisslinger, "it was an earthquake, and it was a significant earthquake for this part of the world. If the center had been under a city, there would have been a lot of damage."

Kisslinger said the quake centered about 260 miles west of St. Louis, near the Kansas-Missouri border. But Dr. James Peoples, of the seismograph station at the University of Kansas, said the quake occurred within a 300-mile radius of the Lawrence campus, 35 miles west of Kansas City.

Early reports were heaviest throughout south-central and central Missouri. Some houses in that area reportedly swayed.

Apparently the quake spread from a lightly populated area outward—to Chicago, Memphis, Omaha and hundreds of other cities.

Kisslinger said the quake was significant because this type of quake—felt over such a large area and with such intensity—is not common in the Midwest. However, the wide span is characteristic of Midwestern tremors, Kisslinger said, and added that there was no reason to think more quakes might follow.

left the Viebrock car a short time later when he stopped and Viebrock said he drove on out Ingram Avenue to where the car went out of control in the loose gravel.

But Devaney Warns About Buffs

Sugar Bowl Eyes Huskers

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

Associated Press Sports Writer

The season is only half over, but Sugar Bowl officials already are casting covetous glances toward Nebraska, while Husker Coach Bob Devaney is busy sounding warnings about Colorado's unbeaten, twice-tied Buffaloes.

"Colorado has been stingy about letting people run or pass against them," Devaney said Wednesday. He cited figures to prove his point. The Huskers are first in rushing defense and total defense in the Big Eight, and second in passing defense. Colorado is right behind the Huskers in each category.

"Colorado scored 36 points against Kansas State and 34 against Oklahoma State," he said. "There is no doubt this is the best team we have faced this season."

Meanwhile, A. Theo Maumus, Sugar Bowl president, announced at New Orleans that scouts from his group will be in Lincoln to see the Husker-Colorado game Saturday. Sugar Bowl scouts also watched Nebraska swamp Wisconsin 37-0. Colorado and Wisconsin finished in a scoreless tie.

The Sugar Bowl plays host to writers and broadcasters Wednesday and asked for their comments. To sum it up, the writers said "Get Nebraska now."

The Sugar Bowl played host to the unbeaten Huskers, but can't say so for the record because the Huskers might decline and other contenders would resent being second or third choice.

Devaney meantime had some good news from his trainer — linebacker Mike Kennedy and defensive end Langston Coleman will be able to see some action.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton expressed dissatisfaction with his team's 6-for-20 passing at Colorado and the Cyclones worked in Murray's spot.

Missouri also drilled hard on passing, in preparing for the Iowa State game at Ames. Gary Lane, Gary Kombrink and Lloyd Carr took turns throwing. Kombrink was still limping slightly from a heel injury.

At Kansas State, defensive back Mike Murray quit the squad. He had seen considerable action. Coach Doug Weaver gave no reason for Murray leaving. Quarterback Mike White worked in O.

Oklahoma learned a knee injury will keep offensive guard Wes Butts out of the K-State game.

Oklahoma State continued to work Buddy Burris at no. 1 quarterback as Glenn Baxter remained a doubtful starter for the Kansas game with a dislocated finger.

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell said Burris did an excellent job all the way for OSU against Texas Tech and "with his speed, the running pass has us worried to death."

Offensive tackle Mike Shinn and linebacker Greg Roth were named co-captains for the OSU game.

Vanderbilt Gains Lead In Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Defensive leaders in college football this year are up and down like a yo-yo.

The new total defense pacesetter, in statistics released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, is Vanderbilt, up from seventh last week.

Cincinnati leads major college eleven in defending on the ground and Harvard is tops in scoring defense — both rising from second place a week ago.

To gain its total defense lead, Vanderbilt has given up 795 yards in five games — an average of 159 yards a game. Bowling Green is close with a 159.8 average.

Cincinnati has yielded only 414 yards a game on the ground, with Dartmouth second with 50.0 and Utah State third with 59.6. In the scoring department, Harvard has yielded only four points a game.

Favor Rises For Paul As Commissioner

CHICAGO (AP) — There is growing sentiment among the major league club owners to set the wheels in motion for a draft of Gabe Paul, part owner of the Cleveland Indians, as the next commissioner of baseball.

The inability of the owners to muster appreciable support Wednesday for a single candidate outside the confines of baseball has changed the moguls' thinking again.

Most of the owners once again favor a ruler from their own ranks.

Paul's most enthusiastic supporter is Bill DeWitt, owner of the Cincinnati Reds. DeWitt originally proposed Paul but the president of the Indians subsequently asked that he not be considered.

"And I put it in writing, too," Paul emphasized. Undaunted, DeWitt said he plans to try again.

"A man can always change his mind," said DeWitt, "especially if it is in the best interests of baseball."

Paul preceded DeWitt as president of the Reds before leaving Cincinnati to become general manager and eventually president of the Cleveland club.

What started out as a list of 18 candidates when the club owners gathered Tuesday was reduced substantially with five men emerging as the leading candidates before the new development.

These five were Eugene M. Zuckert, secretary of the Air Force; Curtis E. LeMay, former chief of staff and head of the Strategic Air Command; G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange; Joe Cronin, president of the American League, and Louis Carroll, legal counsel for the National League.

Not one of these, however, could gather enough support to warrant even an unofficial ballot. Fourteen votes — seven from each league — are required for election.

When that fact became obvious, the co-chairmen of the screening committee, John Fetzer of Detroit and John Galbreath of Pittsburgh requested what they call an "advisory ballot," confining the candidates to men in baseball.

Ballots were passed out and the owners were asked to name their choice. Paul, according to reports, came through strongly in the unofficial balloting as did Cronin and Carroll.

The voting breakdown was unavailable. "Paul would be very much acceptable to the owners if he made himself available," said a prominent club owner who did not want to be identified. "I feel he can get the necessary amount of votes."

In any event, the election of a successor to Ford Frick will not take place until the annual major league winter meetings in Miami Beach, Dec. 2.

The owners entrusted the screening committee with the job of contacting and interviewing the candidates and reporting back with recommendations to the Dec. 2 meeting.

The committee was enlarged by the addition of owners Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs and Bob Reynolds of the California Angels.

The owners cleared the way for the next commissioner by making a blueprint and drawing up recommendations for his administration.

Five distinct administrative positions, proposed by Reynolds and Dodger owner Walter O'Malley, were ratified. They were:

1. An administrator, not unlike the present secretary-treasurer of baseball.
2. Director of player affairs.
3. Director for public information.
4. Director for broadcasting.
5. Director for amateur baseball, encompassing Little League, American Legion, high school and college baseball.

This group will serve as a sort of cabinet for the commissioner.

S-C Eight Graders Bow to Windsor 8-0

The Smith-Cotton eighth grade "B" football squad traveled to Windsor Wednesday evening and lost to the Greyhounds 8-0.

The Greyhounds scored in the first quarter when the halfback ran the ball for a touchdown. In the third quarter after the Tigers were forced to punt, the kick was blocked and a S-C man fell on the ball in the end zone, giving the home team a safety.

Gordie Howe Sparks An All-Star Victory

MONTREAL (AP) — Gordie Howe, who's played in more All-Star games than any other player in National Hockey League history, showed the Montreal Canadiens why in the 19th annual classic Wednesday night.

Howe, at 37, starting his 20th season with Detroit, scored two goals and assisted on two others sparking the All-Stars' 5-2 comeback triumph over the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens in a packed Montreal Forum.

NHL teams mark time now until Saturday when the regular season starts with Detroit at Montreal and Chicago at Toronto.

Eye Roland As Possible All American

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Game after game, three senior players are around the top of the list of defensive All-America candidates in the Midlands, as reported by the Associated Press regional board.

They are back Johnny Roland of Missouri, tackle Walt Barnes of Nebr. and linebacker Carl McAdams of Oklahoma.

The 207-pound Roland, a fourth round future draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals, is an outstanding ball hawk and smashing tackler on defense. Board members and coaches rate him the equal of any defensive back in the land.

Roland is much more than this however, because he gives the offense a big lift. Coach Dan Devine uses him in situations near the goal. In all categories, Roland has handled the ball 39 times and gained 379 yards. Against UCLA he returned a punt 67 yards for a touchdown, then threw a two-point conversion pass for a 14-14 tie.

The 6-foot-3, 252-pound Barnes can play wherever the unbeaten Huskers need him most. Right now he's at tackle. Last season he was an All-Big Eight middle guard. If Nebraska needed an offensive tackle, he'd be the best in the league. Husker coaches say he's so quick, strong and smart he could become a great fullback.

McAdams, 6-3 by 226, knows opponents' moves so well it seems he's always in the right place to stop the play. He's a punishing tackler and fast enough to intercept and bat down passes. Game after game, opposing backs complain "McAdams was everywhere." He was Associated Press Lineman of the Week for the nation after his play against Texas.

The board rated several defensive players close to the top three.

They are ends Sam Harris, 225 of Colorado, and Bill Matan, 239 of Kansas State; tackles Bruce Dyke, 230, Missouri and Hugh McCrabb, 200 Oklahoma State; guard Charley Harper, 245 Oklahoma State; linebackers Jim Waskiewicz, 235 Wichita; Doug Buffone, 220 Louisville; and Dick Fugere, 215 Cincinnati.

and defensive backs Larry Wacholtz, 162 Nebraska, Ken Boston, 178 Missouri and Hale Irwin, 181 Colorado.

Seven sophomores playing defense were pegged as future All-America possibilities by the board. They are Russell Washington, 6-foot-6, 274-pound Missouri end; tackles Frank Bosch, 245, Colorado, and Earl Edwards, 265, Wichita; guards Ron Scott, 224, Colorado, and Jerry Murphy, 241 Nebraska; linebacker Kerry Mottle, 204, Colorado; and back Charles Greer, 183, Colorado.

AFL Defense Honor To George Saines

NEW YORK (AP) — George Saines, a student of the theory of relativity and the safety blitz, has been named the Defensive Player of the Week in the American Football League by The Associated Press.

Saines, a Michigan State alumnus who came to the Bills as a running back, blitzed quarterback Pete Beathard from his safety post, jarred the ball loose, recovered after teammate Roland McDole fumbled, and ran 18 yards for his first pro touchdown.

"You have to give Saines credit for the big play on defense," said Coach Lou Saban of the Bills after their 23-7 victory over Kansas City. "He came in on the blitz, hit Beathard and scored the touchdown that really put it out of reach."

Saines also had three tackles and knocked down two passes in the Bills' fine defensive effort.

Sees Bright Prospects For Gremlins

Gladbach Has Good Nucleus To Build Upon

Prospects for the Sacred Heart Catholic high school Gremlins appear good for the 1965-66 season. Coach Jim Gladbach told the Sedalia Lions Club at a noonday meeting Wednesday. Coach Gladbach was the principal speaker on the program and was introduced by Jimmy Glenn, program chairman.

In his talk he explained in the past season the team lost 20 and won seven of their games, but also pointed out the team played several teams which finished one, two or three in the state district tournaments.

Gladbach said he will have a good nucleus back from the past season, with good experience, and some fine ball players coming up from the "B" squad which should give the team plenty of strength and experience for the coming season.

Coach Gladbach also pointed out coaches in the Pettis-Benton Counties Activities Association rated the teams for this season as Warsaw, number one, a strong club with prospects almost as good as the past season; Northwest high school, composed of students from Hughesville and Houstonia, second; Cole Camp, third; Smithton, fourth; Lincoln, fifth; Sacred Heart, sixth; LaMonte, seventh; and Green Ridge, eighth.

"I would say there may be some surprises in the finish this season for some coaches," he remarked.

The coach also spoke briefly in support of soccer which has been discussed in the PBCAA recently. He said it is a great developer, especially for these youngsters coming up — seven, eight, nine, ten years and older. "It is a good place to start them," he said.

The Sacred Heart schedule outside of the conference will include Bunceton, Concordia, Sweet Springs, St. Joseph of Salisbury, and Mercy high school of Marshall. The alumni game is scheduled for Saturday night, Oct. 30.

President Dr. O. J. Durnell called attention to a fruit cake project of the Lions to raise funds for the club activities, also of the coming basketball tournament of which W. C. (Wink) Ream and John Mais will be co-chairmen. Ream said the tournament would be scheduled sometime the first part of March, providing what dates the Lions could use the high school gymnasium.

Guests at the meeting were Cecil Howley, St. Louis, guest of Neil Chapman, and Jack Newby, Sedalia, guest of J. W. Atkinson.

Second Homecoming Planned At Knob Noster High School

The second annual homecoming of the Knob Noster High School will be held on Friday, Oct. 22.

Activities will include the football game that night between the Panthers and the College High Colts of Warrensburg at 7:30 p.m.; the crowning of the football queen preceding the game, and the homecoming dance in the high school gymnasium following the football game.

All alumni of Knob Noster High School are invited to attend the homecoming festivities, which are being sponsored by the Student Council.

The sponsors are interested in contacting past presidents of senior classes and if anyone has any information concerning any past senior class president, they are asked to contact the Senior High School office or Pam Bess.

Queen candidates will be selected from each of the four classes, and the queen will be selected by the football team.

Russell Leads Celts to Win; Dominates Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As long as they have Big Bill Russell, the champion Boston Celtics are the team to beat for the National Basketball Association title.

Big Bill, the highest-paid player in the NBA with a $100,000 contract, has led the Celtics to seven straight NBA championships. The former All-America from the University of San Francisco demonstrated anew his value to the Celtics Wednesday night in leading Boston to a 100-96 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers, with a team reported to be their best in six years, had been touted as the club that would end the Celtics' championship reign this year. But the Lakers suffered their first defeat after victories over San Francisco and St. Louis.

Russell grabbed a total of 29

Final Quarter TD's by Helias Trim S-C Frosh

The Smith-Cotton freshman football team absorbed their third loss against two wins when they dropped a 19-12 contest to the Crusaders of Jefferson City Helias High School on the Jennie Jaynes gridiron Wednesday evening.

Although neither team could tally in the opening period, the Tigers were presented with an excellent opportunity after Con Chapman blocked a punt on the Helias 17-yard line. The locals advanced to within a yard of the goal line, but ran out of downs and gave up the ball.

In the second period the Crusaders chalked up a score when halfback Ron Kaiser carried on a 2-yard plunge. Quarterback Mike Healey then capped it with a pass to his halfback for the extra point.

The Tigers lit up the scoreboard in the third period when quarterback Wade Bingham tossed a pass to end Mike Dalton, good for 19 yards and the score. An attempt to run the point after touchdown failed.

Each team managed at least one TD in the final period. Helias got its first on a 29-yard pass from Healey to end Roger Cramer. The extra point was no good.

Smith-Cotton scored on another pass from Bingham to Dalton, this one good for four yards. Again the point after touchdown was unsuccessful.

The final score for Helias came on a pass interception by Ron Kaiser, Crusader defensive man. The runback to the goal line was good for six yards. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful.

rebounds and contributed 10 points as the Celtics spurred in the last quarter to wipe out a 77-74 Laker lead. An 11-point spree put the Celtics on top 85-78 and they stayed in front the rest of the way.

Sam Jones was high for Boston with 30 points. Jerry West, although cut over his right eye early in the game, paced the Lakers with 24.

Boyer to Mets As Redbirds Begin Expected Reshuffling

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer, one of the greatest third basemen in St. Louis Cardinal history, has become the first to feel the bite of the Cardinals' plummet from world champion to seventh place in the National League.

Boyer, the Cardinal captain, was traded Wednesday to the New York Mets for left-handed pitcher Al Jackson and third baseman Charley Smith. An unnamed triple-A player also will be sent to the Mets.

"If they started making trades, it figures that the older players would be the first to go," said the 34-year-old, $60,000-a-year power hitter.

If this is true, Boyer may be followed by others. Shortstop Dick Groat, who fell from a .292 batting average in 1964, to .254 last season, will be 35 next month. Left-hander Curt Simmons, who dropped to a 9-15 record after an 18-9 season, is 36. And right-hander Bob Purkey, who was ineffective at 10-9, is 36.

Boyer, however, was the biggest disappointment. Only one year ago, he was named the National League's Most Valuable Player. He was the hero who helped the Cardinals win the pennant with a .296 batting average, 24 home runs and a league-leading, 119 runs batted in.

As a result, he shouldered much of the blame in the 1965 collapse, hitting only .260 with 13 homers and 74 RBI. He was hampered much of the season by a back injury.

Now, after 11 seasons with the Cardinals in which he hit 255 home runs, drove in 1,001 runs and averaged just under .300, Boyer is in a position of having to make a comeback.

"Seventeen years is a long time," he mused, referring to his association with the Cardinals. "I wouldn't be truthful if I didn't say I was sorry to be leaving."

Smith, 28, has bounced around with several teams for six years, only three as a regular. With the Mets he has hit .244 and .239 in two seasons, slammed 36 homers and driven in 120 runs.

Jackson, who will be 30 in December, has been with the Mets for four seasons, with records of 2-20, 13-17, 11-16 and 8-20. He features a sinking fast ball.

Tiger's Odds Dropping As Fight Nears

NEW YORK (AP) — The odds favoring challenger Dick Tiger of Nigeria dropped to 7-5 over middleweight champion Joey Giardello today and may even swing the other way by the time they climb into the ring tonight for their 15-round title fight.

Tiger, 36, was installed 3-1 by the odds-makers on Broadway when the Madison Square Garden fight was made several months ago. Since then the price has been dropping down as more support came in for the 35-year-old champion from Cherry Hill, N.J.

The aggressive, hard-hitting Nigerian was a 3-1 betting favorite the night he lost the title to the ring-smart Giardello at Atlantic City, N.J., Dec. 7, 1963.

"For the life of me I can't figure why the odds favor Tiger," said Giardello Wednesday night. "I beat him the last two times I fought him."

Tiger is hoping that the referee, who will be named at fight time, will prevent Giardello from excessive holding.

"I believe my chances are much stronger here than they were in Atlantic City," said the articulate Nigerian. "In that first fight the referee permitted him to get away with a lot of holding. I'm hoping he'll be forced to fight here."

"I am confident that with the proper officiating I will be able to defeat him."

The return fight has caught fire here and may lure a capacity crowd of 18,000 and a gross gate of $150,000 at prices ranging from $5 to $20. Fight time is 10 p.m., EDT (9 p.m., EST).

The fight will be telecast into homes over a regional network, covering mostly Eastern cities. The metropolitan New York area will be blacked out of the telecast. There will be a local radio broadcast.

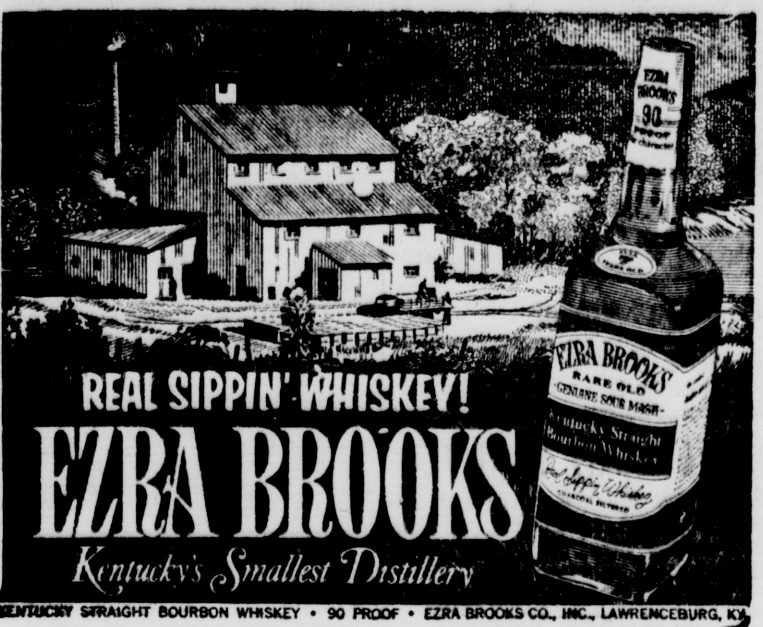

Giardello, a veteran of 18 years of pro fighting, has been guaranteed $50,000 or the privilege of 40 per cent of the net gate and television receipts. Tiger, a pro 14 years, will collect $15,000 or 20 per cent of the package.

Giardello's won-lost-draw record is 98-22-7, including 32 knockouts. He's been stopped three times on cuts but the last time was seven years ago. The champion can take a good punch.

Tiger's record is 51-14-3 including 24 kayos. He's never been stopped.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. The referee and two judges will be named at fight time.

Both have been under the 160-pound weight limit for some time. Neither expects any trouble with the scales at the noon weigh-in.

Stores Out
To Provide
Good Buys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's grocery stores will be out to prove through the end of October that food is a bargain. They are piling up support at the produce counters.

"There is plenty of everything and prices are ridiculously low," a New York wholesaler said. "Everything from apples to nuts. Lettuce, carrots, grapes. Scallions from Arizona. Spanish melons from Chile."

He warned, however, prices may be higher in a week or two as the result of rains in the Carolinas and Florida.

Special promotions are scheduled this week on apples, cheese, fish and seafood.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that in some areas, broiler-fryer and turkey prices are edging upward, and suggests that weekend shoppers look for buys in beef roasts and steaks, pork chops and roasts and lamb legs and chops.

Pumpkins are piling up as hipsters prepare for the unusually huge Halloween market.

Millions Sign Up
For Medicare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 5.7 million elderly Americans have signed up for voluntary medicare insurance, the Social Security Administration says.

The voluntary plan supplements the basic medicare program which pays hospital bills for those 65 and older. Both go into effect next July 1.

Dallas Society Retains Some Frontier Openness

EDITOR'S NOTE — In Texas, they're trying to correct the impression that Dallas society is made up of boasting, boisterous oilmen and their wives. Nothing can be further from the truth, the matrons of Big D say. The following story takes a hard, new look at Dallas society.

By KATHIE DIBELL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Big D society may not be proper Bostonian, but it insists it's not Wild West wealthy either.

The era of the free-wheeling, big-spending Texas oilman has given Dallas society a bad case of paranoia about its public image.

Its members feel the outside world believes they are all flamboyant, extravagant, boisterous, boasting and uncultured.

"They make us sound like such idiots," complains Mrs. Clint Murchison Jr., the blonde wife of a second generation oil millionaire. "There are no Texans like that."

Stanley Marcus, head of the famed Neiman-Marcus department store, acknowledged, "It takes time to get used to money."

However, he said, "the flamboyancy of the early oil days disappeared 10 years ago."

'The Making Of President' A Review

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson rode a landslide back into the White House less than a year ago. Student of politics Theodore H. White, however, apparently could not turn up any aspects of the campaign—for the presidency—that were not fairly obvious at the time.

Thus "The Making of the President, 1964" on CBS Tuesday night was primarily a conscientious review of the events set in motion by the assassination of John F. Kennedy, and it rarely seemed to go beneath the surface.

It was a rather plodding effort in general, except for the initial segments of the 90-minute program dealing with the fierce struggle for control of the Republican party and Gov. William Scranton's, last-minute effort to halt Barry Goldwater's well-organized steamroller.

Perhaps it was the timing, but more likely it was that less colorful personalities were involved, but "The Making of the President, 1964" was a far less satisfying program than the first one supervised by White, "The Making of the President, 1960."

ABC Tuesday sent out the anticipated obituary notices for "Shindig" the rock 'n' roll program that was such a hit with the teen-age crowd last season. The network cut it in half and started its Thursday and Saturday evening programs with it this season.

The musical show failed to survive the operation — or perhaps the fickle teens just dropped it. Anyway, its Nielsen ratings put it down at the bottom of the popularity list. But ABC has not given up its attempted conquest of the youthful audience. Warming up in the wings is something called "Batman," an adventure series about a fellow who disguises himself as a bat to help solve crimes.

This will be on twice a week — Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 EST — starting in January. It is based on a comic strip, but ABC publicists are earnestly attempting to sell the idea that it will be "hip, sophisticated and tongue-in-cheek."

Peter Harris, a florist who has handled the debutantes' presentation for the past 15 years, said that when he first arrived in Dallas, his clients would "order a Rolls-Royce to match their hats. But now the trend is to do things properly, rather than to out-do. They now worry about its being overdone."

Even the legend's contributors are subdued.

Jake Hamon, whose costume parties once featured the hostess riding in on an elephant, now declines any publicity and has been known to lecture other oilmen about improving their public image.

D. Harold Byrd is famed for his parties after the Texas-Oklahoma football games. Once up to 1,700 attended, but the parties stopped five years ago.

Although the 65-year-old millionaire still enjoys his fortune, much of it now goes to charities and foundations. He's even trimmed his fleet of airplanes to one.

Dallas still has "some interesting parties," Byrd said. "However, they are well-behaved parties. I haven't seen any drunkenness for a long time. That wasn't true 15 or 20 years ago."

Despite the changes, Dallas society still retains a certain frontier openness with entry based on the individual rather than on ancestry.

Today it includes a Louisiana landscaper, a Yankee mayor, a high school dropout, a clubwoman working on her Ph.D., and the oil millionaires.

"You are accepted in Texas until you disprove yourself," says Joseph Lambert Jr., society landscaper.

Lambert came to Dallas from Shreveport, La., in 1937, with two assistants. He now has a staff of nearly 250, lives in an exquisitely furnished penthouse atop Dallas' most prestigious apartment address, drives a Rolls-Royce, talks of buying an Italian villa and has been accepted into the city's most exclusive social club.

A home not landscaped by Lambert is a house half-done. Parents of debutantes vie with one another and plead with Lambert to provide the proper setting for the wedding or coming-out affair.

Tabs for his parties have ranged from $5,000 to $50,000.

Millionaires are almost taken for granted in Dallas, so money alone is not enough to guarantee entry to society. Conversely, a lack of fortune doesn't bar one.

"You don't have to have money, if you look as if you have a promising future," said one social critic.

The Fred Wiedemanns—though certainly comfortable—don't fit into the millionaire class, but they still rank in society. They represent the bright, young cultural set. She is president of the Junior League. He is an insurance man, heads the Civic Opera Guild and belongs to the leading men's club.

"I hate the word society," Mrs. Wiedemann said, "because people read it and get their backs up. People who are active, aware and educated are immediately assimilated into Dallas Society."

"You have to be really good in something. Those without money have smarts, and those without smarts have lots of heart." Next year, Mrs. Wiedemann plans to be at the Jung Institute in Zurich, Switzerland, to work toward her doctorate in psychology.

Dallas society, with its roots in land and financial interests, digested the oilmen. Now it is embracing the leaders of the technological revolution which hit the city after World War II.

Mayor Erik Jonsson and James Ling, 42, chairman of the board of Ling-Temco-Vought, a major defense and space contractor, arrived in the postwar era.

Jonsson came to Dallas from Newark, N.J., with a small in-

Mrs. David Smith Given Bridal Party

A bridal shower was given to honor Mrs. David Smith Oct. 8 at the home of Mrs. F. A. Schutte, Smithton, by Miss Betty Schutte. Green and white were used in decorations.

Present were: the honoree; Mrs. Opal L. Schroeder, Smithton, mother of the bride, Mrs. Irah Smith, Smithton, mother of the bridegroom; Mrs. Dick G. strument manufacturing firm. It mushroomed into one of the largest employers in Dallas County.

He was elected president of the powerful Dallas Citizens Council, comprised of heads of business, and was named to the top social club.

Ling—tough, young and ruggedly handsome—is a different breed of postwar rich. A journeyman electrician who left high school at age 14, Ling settled in Dallas with a $3,000 electrician's business.

"By guts and borrowed money," Ling parleyed that stake to form Ling-Temco-Vought, a multimillion-dollar concern.

"I have no idea whether I'm accepted or not," Ling said. "I enjoy meeting people on my own terms and am not in the habit of giving cocktail parties if I can avoid it."

"I think it's delightful to have the new people," said Mrs. Murchison, just before she left her 25-acre estate to pick up her children from school. "Our generation is different."

Secret Set Off Limits To Reporter

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I have just returned from a visit behind the concrete curtain that surrounds "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

The set is utterly closed, you know. Those are the orders. But who's afraid of J.L. Warner? I applied for a visa to observe conditions behind the frontier of Stage 8.

"You can visit the stage but not the set," I was instructed. This meant I could inspect the dressing room area and perhaps converse with occupants. Any approach to the field of shooting was verboten.

With those instructions in mind, I was escorted to the stage. It seemed much like any other movie set, complete with crib-like dressing rooms, make-up tables and the like. At the other end of the stage was the set, which was not to be described. So forget that I mentioned it looked like any other middle-class, college-town house.

Nothing was happening. Mike Nichols, the brilliant stage director whose first film is "Virginia Woolf," was seated in his dressing room-office. The movie was going smoothly, he reported, and the studio bosses seemed pleased with the results. "That's what counts," I said. "No, it isn't," he corrected. "What counts is that I am pleased."

He seemed to be. So did George Segal, the new young star ("Ship of Fools," "King Rat") who plays the biologist who calls on the embattled college professor and his barracuda of a wife.

It was difficult to assess the feelings of Sandy Dennis, the Broadway star ("Any Wednesday") who enacts Segal's young wife. She emerged sleepily from her dressing room after a nap, uttered a few sentences, then vanished.

Still no action. The company seemed to be waiting for something. In time the famous pair arrived: Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Their on-screen appearance is another matter of security. I feel it my duty to report that Miss Taylor, who is required to portray a harriidan a decade older than her own 33 years, looks properly blowy for the role, if not top-heavy. Burton as her long-suffering mate appeared somewhat seedy, with the suggestion of a paunch.

The Burtons, Nichols, Dennis and Segal were summoned to the set, and I remained behind at Checkpoint Charlie, 30 feet away from the action. There I met the producer and writer, Ernest Lehman. The film is going swimmingly, he assured, and will finish on or about Dec. 1. It started July 26. End of report.

A Losing Battle

Newport's Old Grandeur Is Being Clipped Away

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — At the spot where John Jacob Astor anchored a luxurious yacht, tourists stand in tennis shoes. Weeds smother a nearby mansion.

Weary, dirty dock workers frequent the Muenchinger King Hotel, once the vacation resort of presidents.

The stable where 30 horses slept under linen sheets is dismantled and The Breakers, 70-room Vanderbilt mansion, is on display for $1.75 a head.

These are signposts of a decaying chapter in American life, the requiem of magnificent midnight balls where 1,000 dancers waltzed on the lawns and jeweled ladies swept down red-carpeted staircases into the arms of noblemen, millionaires and kings.

This was the glittering age of elegance, the 90-foot yachts with Persian rugs, the afternoon carriage rides down Bellevue Avenue past great stone "cottages," the awesome summer palaces of the barons of industry and finance.

This was a $200,000 dinner party, 50 servants a household, the building of an $11-million cottage called Marble House and 200 Italian workmen imported for the job.

This was before taxes. Efforts still are being made to cling to the old way of life, to opulence and elegance and to the glided age of grandeur.

Merrell Kerby Saunders rides in a white Rolls-Royce, a television antenna swinging on top. He has residences in New York, Newport and an estate with two dozen bathrooms in Mendham, N.J. His ancestors founded Saunderson, R.I.

"Quick, Collins," says Saunders to his chauffeur, "to the Reading Room." Saunders leans back into the leather seat, adjusts a blue silk tie and explains:

"The Reading Room, you know, is the oldest men's club in America. I wouldn't think of not going by for half an hour before dinner. Everyone does."

The Reading Room is a modest clapboard building built in 1854 and boasts some of the oldest flush toilets in the United States. Saunders says "It's the image that counts here."

The grande dame of Newport is Mrs. Louis Brugiere, a petite

90-ish widow, the former Mrs. James Laurens Van Allen. Her mansion, Wakehurst, is a duplicate of an English castle and is run with 20 servants as it was in the 1890s.

Mrs. Brugiere is known as the most "Proper" member of society. Guests are not admitted to dinner, be it for two or 90, unless men wear black tie and women long evening gowns. A hand-written menu, in French, is at every place setting. In her household, a brass cleaner is said to clean only brass.

This season's last lavish affair was a debutante ball put on by New Yorkers. A candlelight dinner and dance was held at The Elms, summer home of Philadelphia coal magnate Edwin Berwind, now owned by the Newport Preservation Society.

Two hundred, mostly out-of-towners, drank champagne on the terrace, strolled through sunken gardens, and danced into the morning. Enough Newporters appeared to lend an air of authenticity. Most left before the dance was over.

Newport's old grandeur is being chipped away by modern society: by curiosity seekers at the deb ball hovering around gates outside, by dowdy spinsters who drink beer at the

Takes Amendments Wizard Pulls a Surprise On Members Of Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton pulled a surprise on members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities — and they apparently pulled a surprise on the Ku Klux Klan leader.

They produced bank records, income tax returns and a handwritten letter Tuesday to try to prove there was some financial hanky-panky going on within the Klan, with Shelton's wife using a Klan account under a disguised name.

Then Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., gave Shelton and his wife a chance to think things over before facing more questions today.

Shelton's lieutenants sat in neat business suits watching stonily as their leader took shelter under the Constitution 73 times in refusing to answer questions about the Klan or its money.

The Klansmen may not have been surprised, but the committee was.

A source said Shelton and his lawyer walked into the committee offices on the eve of the hearing opening and promised to cooperate, "to tell about the Klan and what he hopes to do with it."

If so, Shelton obviously changed his mind.

There was surprise on the faces of the investigators when, almost at the first crack of the hearing, Shelton refused to identify Georgia Klan incorporation papers under his name. He also refused, despite a warning from Willis that he was on "thin ice,"

Seek New Young Men For Curia

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI is reported ready to issue new regulations designed to bring new and younger men into the top levels of the Roman Curia.

The Curia, the central administrative body of the Roman Catholic Church, is dominated by conservative officials, most of them Italian. Progressives at the Vatican Ecumenical Council have been urging major reforms to internationalize the organization and end the entrenchment of the old men at the top.

Vatican sources said the Pope would issue a two-part document which would:

- Make 70 the mandatory retirement age for all high positions in the Curia, including cardinals and papal nuncios of archbishop's rank.
- Provide for automatic suspension from their jobs of all cardinals who head Curia departments upon the death of a Pope. The new Pope could then replace or retain each man.

It was not known if the retirement rule would apply to those now in control of the 12 congregations, three tribunals and six special offices that make up the Curia. Of 28 cardinals in rank, 22 are over 70.

They include the militant leader of the conservative faction in the Ecumenical Council, Alfredo Ottaviani, head of the Holy Office, who will be 75 next week, Amleto Cicognani, the 82-year-old secretary of state, and Eugene Tisserant, 81, the prefect of the Ceremonial Congregation and the dean of the College of Cardinals.

One of the church's leading progressives, Augustin Cardinal Bea, is 84. But he heads the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat, and his office is not classified as part of the Curia.

The Pope is expected to issue his document by the time the Ecumenical Council ends in December, before he holds his second consistory to name new cardinals. Some of these may be named also to Curia posts.

Businessmen Can Operate Railroad Line

PUXICO, Mo. (AP) — A group of southeast Missouri businessmen say they can operate at a profit a railroad line the Frisco Railroad is abandoning because it is losing money.

The businessmen are seeking to buy the 53 miles of track between Chaffee and Poplar Bluff plus switching facilities in Delta and Poplar Bluff.

The group will present its case to the Interstate Commerce Commission at a hearing Nov. 8 in Poplar Bluff.

Jack Reese of Puxico, a member of the group who also owns a grain elevator in Puxico, said stockholders feel the line can be operated at a profit. He said it was necessary to elevate and farm interests in communities along its route.

Kenneth Spence of Advance, a Missouri Farmers Association spokesman, said 1,200 farmers would have to pay about an extra 10 cents per bushel of grain if they had to truck it to other rail centers.

Frisco received permission to abandon the line, which hauls only freight 104 miles between Chaffee and Poplar Bluff. The tracks south of Poplar Bluff are being removed. Service between Chaffee and Poplar Bluff will continue until Dec. 1.

Princess In Social Coup Of The Year

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie-land's social coup of the year — Princess Margaret at the WAIF Ball Nov. 8 — fell right out of the royal blue.

The princess herself asked to be invited, says Jane Russell, founder of the World Adoption International Fund group.

The actress said: "We owe it all to Sharran Douglas, a charter member of WAIF. She has been telling the princess for years that if ever she came to the United States, she should attend our ball which is really a fun ball."

Town Crier Latest In Long Line

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP) — Every summer for 12 years, Arthur P. Snader has put on a dark Pilgrim suit, complete with a broad white collar and tall, wide-brimmed hat, and marched off bell in hand to announce the tides, weather conditions and local events.

He was the latest in a long line of town criers of Provincetown, a job he says dates back to at least the 18th century.

Now Snader has turned in his round badge of office and retired. He has walked two or three miles every day from Memorial Day to Labor Day and he is "tired out."

Provincetown is at the very tip of Cape Cod, and Snader's job mainly was for the benefit of summer tourists.

Tourists also were his main source of trouble.

"Most of them were pretty nice," Snader says, "but now and then I'd run into one of those amateur comedians."

Snader is 81. He believes the strenuous outdoor life of a town crier may be partially responsible for his good health, but "maybe good liquor has helped."

Town manager Robert Hancock said: "We will have to go long way to find someone as conscientious as Arthur. He has missed a day's work since he took the job."

Snader, a blimp pilot in World War I, says he looked for 12 years to retirement. For one thing, he plans to write a book.

Student Panel Depicts Trip For Presby WA

Four senior high school students of Broadway Presbyterian Church comprised a panel for Women's Association Oct. 5 at the church.

Participating in discussion of a study tour of the southwest were Miss Lillian Cain, Miss Betsy Whittier, Jim Denny and Mike McCarthy. Moderator was Miss Marjorie Rector, director of Christian education.

McCarthy told about main tour stops, the towns of Chino, Truchas and Pensaco, the Mayo Valley Medical Center, Cleveland, and Manual School at Atlix, all in New Mexico.

Miss Cain discussed church medical and social work, in those areas. Educational opportunities available to their young people were told by Miss Whittier.

In summarization, Denny described living conditions of citizens called Spanish-Americans, the poverty many of them face and lack of communication between English and Spanish speaking peoples.

Smith, president, conducted business. Devotion, "Let Us Remember..." was given by Mrs. H. N. Cain, daughter of Mrs. Foster McGuire.

Dessert was served by Ruth E. Wilson Circle.

'Thinking Big' for Progress

Nation-wide attention is being directed toward expanding water resources and providing more public recreational areas. Populous states and the federal government are working together on such projects.

Already Washington has approved a $100 million plan for increasing Ohio's system of recreational parks. Kentucky is another prime example of what can be done in this direction. The Tourist and Travel Department is stimulating a new source of income and jobs in a state where coal mining is in decline and mountainous country does not lend itself to rich agricultural crops.

Expansion of recreational areas is encouraged by Missouri state officials, too. This was emphasized when interest was expressed by William Towell, director of the Missouri Conservation Commission, in a Sedalia-Pettis County proposed water recreational project within the county, north of the present Spring Fork lake.

Formulation of plans for this improvement was given impetus as a result of initial action by the Sedalia Lions club, the Sedalia Board of Public Works and the Pettis County Court. Members of these groups met with Mr. Towell to explain the purpose of the 3,500 acre project which would provide for Sedalia a supplemental water supply from a 900 acre reservoir in addition to recreational facilities and the attendant benefits that usually follow main objectives. One of these is the attraction of industry to the immediate region.

This venture in the Spring Fork area is an effort which no doubt will require implementation on a county level by the matching of available federal funds.

As a result of local interest focusing on this subject there may be originated other similar projects related to water resources and recreational facilities from which the Sedalia-Pettis community could benefit. Among others, one might well include a location in the upper reaches of Flat Creek in the Lake Tebo neighborhood.

Local pessimists who groan about apathetic community leadership not "thinking big" had better lend an ear to some of the spade work being done on such ambitious projects mentioned herewith. These won't be accomplished without a consolidation of effort by the rank and file with that of local business men and officials who initiate such programs by "thinking big."

Current action in the field of progress reflects an encouraging tide of community initiative and cooperation.

Planning by these men, or any others, for the future comfort and growth of the Sedalia-Pettis County community must be consistently encouraged instead of persistently criticized.

Twenty-five acres of corn were sold at 83.6 cents a bushel at the John Alexander sale, two miles east of Longwood. Jim Hayes, a farmer near Sedalia, was the buyer. Pigs and sows sold from $50 to $63 a head. The highest bid on cattle was $85. Horses sold at an average of $86 a head. Only a few months ago corn was selling at 50 cents a bushel, cattle for $60 and horses for an average of $50 a head.

The large German howitzer, property of Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion has arrived and is now on display at the armory on West Second street. The gun weighs 20,000 pounds and was captured by the American forces during World War I. It is the intention of the American Legion to use the $2,000 now being held by the Pettis County Court for a memorial, to place the gun on a concrete base on the Pettis County court house lawn and to erect on this base a statue of a doughboy with a bronze plate upon which will be engraved

Back to Essentials

After failing for years to convince Congress to repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law in toto, labor devoted its considerable energies this present session to getting one part of it knocked out — Section 14B, which gives states the option of either permitting or prohibiting compulsory union membership.

The Democratic-dominated Senate has now shelved the measure after failing to achieve even a simple majority on a vote to shut off a Republican filibuster (a two-thirds vote was needed).

The AFL-CIO would be well-advised to stop beating this particular horse, dead for this year at any rate, and start thinking about how it can unionize those states where it does not have the force of law on its side.

Labor claims to have the figures proving that wages are higher, benefits greater and security stronger among workers in states allowing the union shop.

It might get faster results — and be truer to the spirit of the early leaders in the movement — by redirecting some of its expensive lobbying efforts from the halls of Congress to the factory benches in the hinterland.

Washington Viewpoint

Nixon: Man-of-Experience in 1968

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon, unmistakably campaigning for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, appears fully convinced that the tactics and techniques he used as nominee in 1960 will serve him better now than they did then.

A close watch on his 1965 platform performance shows him to be largely unchanged as a campaigner, except that his present posture as a worker in the party vineyards allows him to relax more and indulge more frequently in witty sallies.

Already well-remarked by many is one clear Nixon purpose in 1965 and 1966—to collect a storehouse of credits among state GOP leaders and candidates at all levels by stumping their territories tirelessly to raise money and promote Republican victories.

In 1960, of course, his "bank of gratitude" was heaped high after eight years of such efforts.

More interesting at the moment, however, is the fact that Nixon is today presenting himself to party people almost exactly as he offered himself five years ago.

Basically it is the image of the foreign affairs specialist — tempered by eight years close to the White House, well-traveled, the friend and equal of world leaders. Hear him on the trail:

"I've just returned from Viet Nam, Japan and the other areas that have been in the news. I've now been in 55 countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain. . . .

"I remember talking recently to an Asian prime minister about our problems at home and he said: 'Mr. Nixon, what does it mean when we read of protests against your government's policies in Viet Nam?' And I said: 'Mr. Prime Minister. . . .'

Quite naturally, reminiscences from his days as vice president come easily to him: "Mr. Eisenhower called me into his office and said: 'You know, Dick, we've got to do something about. . . .'

As in 1960, Nixon manages always to suggest — without saying it — that all this seasoning and these rich contacts are at the voters' disposal if only they will act wisely.

In friendly, homey tones, sometimes almost whispered as if conveyed confidentially to two or three persons in a small room, Nixon offers samples of the judgment people can expect from him:

"Do you realize the trouble America is in around the world? Pick up your map when you go home. You can't find any place where we aren't worse off than in 1960.

"NATO is a shambles. Central Africa is a playground for the Communists. Cambodia, Laos and Burma are on the brink. . . .

Underscoring his foreign affairs bent, Nixon hardly bothers to dwell on domestic matters except to draw laughs by labeling the nation's lawmakers, acting under President Johnson's prod, as the "do-nothing" Congress.

Lines like that, and "let's take the profit out of poverty," he uses often enough to suggest he is honing a set campaign speech for heavy duty in 1966.

In asides from policy matters, he still likes to inject little comments about his family, about his school days and his early life in Whittier, Calif. At 52 he talks a bit like an elder statesman now, saying of young state candidates: "I was once in their age brackets."

All of this helps Nixon's self-projection as a kind of friendly neighborhood counselor. But, as in 1960, he wants his listeners to remember that this particular counselor has a tough core of knowledge about the world — and deserves not merely to be heard but to be chosen for high leadership.

This Week It's Commie Headquarters!"

GOP Headed for December Showdown

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican policymakers may be headed for a December showdown on the nagging question mark of John Birch Society influence within their party.

The question zoomed into prominence when Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky tied into the Birch Society and said its influence should be booted out of the GOP.

Morton, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, charged the militantly conservative organization is trying to take over the party.

GOP floor leaders of the House and Senate joined him in declaring the society is no part of the GOP.

The Birch Society promptly denied it has designs on the Republican party. As the Democratic National Committee gleefully noted, society founder Robert Welch said that would be "petty larceny."

Most state GOP chairmen said they doubt the Capitol Hill denunciation will have any particular impact on the party itself.

"The denunciation was more for the edification of the public than the party," said West Virginia Chairman John Scott.

At last year's San Francisco convention which nominated Barry Goldwater for the presidency, delegates jeered to defeat a platform amendment that would have denounced the society.

Now a similar proposal may face the next session of the Republican Coordinating Committee, a council of party leaders due to meet in Washington Dec. 13.

Morton and Michigan Gov. George Romney have said they may seek to have the committee declare itself on the Birch Society.

Goldwater, who has denounced the positions taken by Welch but not the society's members, serves on the coordinating committee.

So does New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has expressed delight at "a growing awareness that the John Birch group is trying to gain control of the party."

Goldwater has said he sees no such threat, but he has suggested that Republicans resign from the society and spend their time working for the party.

That represents little change from a position he took long before the presidential nomination, when he said he had urged some society members to quit the organization in protest against Welch's leadership.

Most state GOP chairmen agree that the society is not a potent force within the party.

Since his original denunciation of the society, Morton has said there are probably as many Democrats as Republicans in the Birch Society.

Later, he charged that "Birchers of the left" had a hold on the Democrats.

Slow Learners Can Learn

By Susan Light
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many parents have written me about their children who are classified as "slow learners" in school. Of course, no parent wants to be told his pride and joy is lacking in gray matter and may not get through high school, let alone college. Some won't accept the verdict, often with good reason.

As I've mentioned in previous columns, so-called "slow learners" may actually be "under-achievers" with physical, emotional or neurological difficulties. When the underlying cause is corrected, the child may become an average or superior student. Letters from readers whose children have overcome learning handicaps are evidence of this cheering possibility.

But when all correctable factors are ruled out, and there's nothing to do but face the fact that the child will never set the world on fire, then what? Parents and teachers must go on from that point and make sure the child is given every chance to develop the abilities he does have.

Dr. Jack Abramowitz, national authority on the teaching of reading, has worked successfully with hundreds of slow learners. In the process he has developed methods and materials that can be used profitably by other teachers. Last spring I had the privilege of watching him in action, and it appears he gets children to do better than their "best."

In his opinion, ability groupings are necessary for effective teaching in any situation. Contrary to usual practices, however, slow learners should be kept in the academic mainstream, and courses should not be watered down for them. They should take history and algebra, for example, rather than shop and business arithmetic.

Reading materials for these children should have different levels, for even slow learners have a wide range of abilities. Each child should be graded against himself and in relation to his own group so that a student in the lowest group can make "A's."

Dr. Abramowitz claims that textbooks are meant to be "instruments of instruction"—not literature. For slow learners particularly, materials should have short sentences and brief paragraphs and include constant review for retention.

Everything possible should be done in class and homework confined to brief assignments. Study halls should be eliminated for those who don't know how to study, he believes.

Some educators may not agree with Dr. Abramowitz. But they can't argue with the success he has achieved against tremendous odds.

Dr. Abramowitz believes that the abilities of the slow learner can be upgraded, and some children can eventually be brought into regular classes. "Slow learning," he says, "is susceptible to remediation AT ANY TIME to some degree."

Dr. Abramowitz believes that the abilities of the slow learner can be upgraded, and some children can eventually be brought into regular classes. "Slow learning," he says, "is susceptible to remediation AT ANY TIME to some degree."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Influenza Expected To Increase This Winter

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

With the approach of another winter it is predicted that there will be an increase in the cases of influenza over last year. It is therefore recommended that you get your influenza vaccine as soon as possible. Although everyone should have this protection it is especially important in the so-called high risk groups — persons with heart disease, lung disease and such metabolic diseases as diabetes, rickets and over- or underactivity of the thyroid; persons who are past 65; and pregnant women. A single dose of the vaccine will confer some immunity but two doses given about eight weeks apart are recommended as providing better protection.

Q — My doctor says I have a floating kidney but that there is nothing he can do about it. What would you advise?

A — A floating or displaced kidney is of no importance unless it causes pain by pressing on a nerve or on one of the organs in the lower abdomen. It is, however, more vulnerable than a normally placed kidney to infection, the formation of kidney stones, and kinking of the ureter (the tube leading from the kidney to the bladder). Should any of these misfortunes befall you, you might have to have the kidney removed or you might have to have an operation to fix it more firmly in its normal position. These operations would not be advisable unless your kidney became a source of serious trouble.

Q — I am a man, 54 years old. As an adult my height has been 64 inches but I was measured recently and my height was only 62½ inches. What would cause this?

A — As we grow older the space between our vertebrae, all 33 of them, shrinks a little. Furthermore we are likely not to stand as straight as when we were younger.

Q — My husband is taking Peritrate for his heart. What does it do and how long will he have to take it? What are the side effects?

A — Pentaerythritol tetranitrate (Peritrate) is given to persons with angina pectoris to dilate the blood vessels of the heart and prevent attacks of pain. It should not be taken by anyone who has glaucoma but others can take it indefinitely since it controls the disease rather than cures it. Side effects are rare but in some persons it may cause a mild headache.

Q — Should Pap tests still be made every year after a hysterectomy (complete removal of the uterus)?

A — Yes.

Stick to Holiday Outline

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR GIRLS—Schedules are like New Year's resolutions in that more are broken than are kept. Nevertheless, a general outline for Christmas holiday preparations (always subject to change for individual needs) will help prevent last-minute panic and pandemonium on Christmas Eve.

Some readers may be ahead of these proposed plans. If so, fine. Many packages for delivery overseas are probably already mailed by the week of Nov. 1. If not, they must be mailed by Nov. 10, or air mailed by Dec. 10 to be sure of delivery by Christmas.

By, or during, the first week of November, Christmas cards should be ordered. If the signature is to be imprinted, include your last name as someone may know a dozen Marys or Jims. Last year's card list must be checked to know how many to order and we suggest getting some extras.

At this time make address changes in your file or book and add zip code numbers. This will speed up the job when envelopes are addressed. One of our readers suggested that the addresses be written with pencil for easier changing. Another uses a red and a green pen to draw sprays of holly berries and leaves on the name and address stickers she will put on the envelopes.

Cookie baking can be done now. The cookies keep for a long time in the freezer. A home economist also suggests making all the dough, quick freezing the cutout shapes on cookie sheets and then slipping them into plastic bags and storing in the freezer to be baked later.

Those who do Christmas shopping throughout the year should check the gifts on hand against their lists so there is no chance of duplicate buying. About this time it might be well to write down your own sizes and wants so when friend husband asks you are all prepared with suggestions to help him shop.

By the week of Nov. 8, it is well to plan any special entertaining to be done during the holidays. Start guest lists and jot down ideas for menus. Start clipping any holiday recipes, party or menu ideas that appear in newspapers and magazines—POLLY

Volcano Erupts

In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP)—Pacaya volcano erupted Tuesday night, showering nearby towns with rocks and ashes.

There were no immediate reports of casualties, but police said Amatitlan, about 10 miles from the 8,346-foot volcano, was being covered by ash and residents of several towns near the volcano were asking for help to evacuate the area.

High columns of flaming lava from the eruption were visible in Guatemala City, 19 miles north of the volcano.

Pacaya erupted for three days in 1961, forcing more than 1,000 residents to flee the area. Many animals were killed, but no human casualties were reported.

List Myron a Winner

MARINETTE, Wis. (AP)—Unofficial complete returns list Daniel Myron of Peshtigo as the winner over Robert Angwall of Marinette in a two-county Republican primary for a vacant seat in the Wisconsin Assembly by a vote of 1,421 to 1,420.

For suit and the jump to three no-trump was that slight gamble mentioned earlier. South knew his partner held at least a king and a queen and if he also held a decent major suit, South had good support for it.

Married Man Is Not A 'Playboy'

By ROBERT E. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The unmarried American male too often is portrayed by his married friends as the playboy — the guy who has everything. It is time the record was set straight.

What he really is, you married guys, is what you would be if you were not so lucky as to have found the Little Woman. You should know this unless you've forgotten about the Dirty Apartment Society.

The DAS still is going strong, offering housekeeping employment opportunities which have gone virtually untapped in this country's bid to drive out poverty.

Employment agencies say it is hard enough to meet demands of reliable domestic help for normal, established households — let alone the errant bachelor.

Yet some of us are lucky. Another newsman and I who share half of a suburban duplex have a faithful cleaning lady who shows up with clock-like precision every other Tuesday for "Operation Passageway."

She's the boss, and knows it. One thing we learned quickly is that when she arrives, it is time to abandon ship. This is an unspoken ultimatum delivered with one piercing glance through her dark-rimmed glasses.

She has a habit of leaving notes to tell what she needs. Not just one note in a specified place, but two, and sometimes more, stuck in obvious, eye-level spots around the house.

"Get some rags," demanded one on the bar. A bathroom mirror note called in big block letters for "a new dust mop." Still another on a kitchen table listed various cleaners and detergents. She's specific about brand names, and openly resents any substitute.

Yet there is a maternal instinct about her. You can tell by the way she always leaves the beds turned down, neatly hangs the scattered clothing, and stacks magazines on a bedside table.

We have no doubt that her bimonthly venture into this jungle of overrun ash trays, beer bottles, and dusty corners is something of a sacrifice.

The unmarried male definitely is one of those animals who despises to see anything thrown away. So after a while, anything he owns is owned in abundance.

The bachelor's life isn't all bad, however, and there is that freedom you married guys all cry about. But for the love of Pete, the next time you reach for those pipes and slippers, don't kid yourselves about your old fraternity brothers.

Hal Boyle is on vacation.

Grand Jury To Probe Anti-Trust Actions

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—A Federal grand jury was impaneled Tuesday to take under consideration, among other matters an anti-trust case, the nature of which was not disclosed.

It was believed, however, that the anti-trust investigation involves bidding practices by oil companies on state contracts.

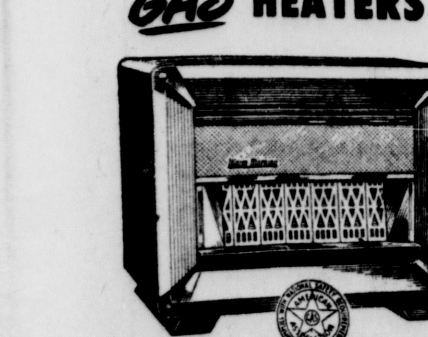

Two anti-trust attorneys from the Chicago office of the Department of Justice have been assigned to the hearing. They are Raymond D. Hunter and John E. Burke.

They directed a similar inquiry by a St. Louis grand jury which last July returned indictments against 18 oil firms and oil products companies, charging them with conspiracy to fix prices in connection with the sale of liquid asphalt to the state of Missouri.

Predicts Doubling of Totals

Advertising Trend Toward Newspapers

LOS ANGELES — Newspaper advertising revenues are expected to more than double in the next ten years "to close to $10 billion" by 1975, Charles Lipscomb, Jr., President, Bureau of Advertising, A.N.P.A., has predicted.

Speaking to the Los Angeles Advertising Club, Lipscomb said that "newspapers are perched on the launching pad with all systems 'Go' for an epoch-making flight into the space age."

Lipscomb found several reasons for optimism. One is the performance of the newspaper business. "More people are reading newspapers than ever before, and they are spending more time doing so. Last year, newspapers sold more copies than ever before, and they sold more advertising than ever before," Lipscomb mentioned that 1964 newspaper advertising revenues exceeded $4 billion—more than the total combined expenditures in television and magazines.

Another reason for rapid growth ahead is that newspaper are well equipped to serve the communications needs of tomorrow's society which Lipscomb described as "a burgeoning population with heavy emphasis on the young families. A better educated population which will be tuned in to the values of the age that is being delivered by scientists in laboratories from MIT to Cal. Tech. A population with an ear for music and an eye for art and a bent for reading. A population with more children staying in school longer and with more housewives having jobs outside home."

Lipscomb suggested that the socially cohesive function of the newspaper will tend to provide a steadily growing market for newspaper in the new, more mobile society, whose people "will have little identification with the new suburbs that they are likely to move in to and out of. It will be a population with a minimum of tradition; a population influenced by the world of science and technology in which they live to search for rational answers to whatever problems they may have." To an increasing extent, people will depend on the local newspaper to orient themselves in and identify with their communal environment.

"Improved educational standards will benefit both newspapers and their readers," Lipscomb said, "because there is no end to the curiosity of the educated person—and for this type of person, there is no substitute for the newspaper. Through the newspaper, the educated person communicates with the world."

Lipscomb stressed the importance of the new marketing opportunities created by the rapidly growing number of working women who, with increasing frequency, tend to be homemakers with a couple of children whom the yhave guided through the pre-school age. And they don't necessarily enter the labor force because their families are poverty-stricken. "The greatest proportion of working wives is found in middle and upper middle income groups," Lipscomb said, adding that the additional income brought home by such wives has contributed "to a considerable extent" to rapid increase of the number of families in such income groups.

The working wife is almost always an "over-time housewife" who takes care of her home as well as her job, Lipscomb said. This means that she has different shopping habits, different needs in clothing and make-up and a greater share in the family's purchasing decisions than her stay-at-home colleague. The working wife also has different media habits with little time for television and radio. "But they are women on the go," Lipscomb said, "women who like to keep up with things—and they are excellent newspaper readers."

Lipscomb expected some changes in advertising strategy to take place within the next decade. More advertising will

Astronauts Planning Day Long Rehearsal

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Gemini 6 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford planned a daylong rehearsal today for Monday's rendezvous flight in which they will attempt to hook up with another satellite.

The exercise was postponed Tuesday because of a stray electrical signal which scrambled the memory bank in the spacecraft computer.

Technicians found the source of the signal in a loose connection in the Titan 2 launch rocket. The memory bank was fixed. Schirra and Stafford plan to suit up and climb into the spacecraft to practice emergency procedures in case of launching trouble and to run through the rendezvous exercises they will perform with an Agena satellite.

be beamed at housewives because of their increasing participation in purchase decisions of all kinds. Such advertising will tend to be "informational rather than emotional."

Puts Aside Morrissey Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says there are more senators ready to vote for confirmation of Francis X. Morrissey as a federal judge than there are opposed.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen says he expects all 32 Republicans and more than half a dozen Democrats to join him in voting to send the nomination back to committee.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield once again has put aside the controversial appointment even though the session is growing shorter.

Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat who is Morrissey's chief sponsor, said Tuesday night a large number of senators have told him a new FBI report on the Boston municipal court judge "cleared up any question they had and they are now fully prepared to support the nomination."

"There are more votes in favor of the nomination than opposed," he said.

Kennedy issued the confident statement after Dirksen renewed his attack on President Johnson's nomination of the old friend of the Kennedy family to be a U.S. District Court judge in Massachusetts.

Kennedy, said Dirksen, is using the nomination "for partisan political purposes."

Following a meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, Dirksen described Morrissey as unqualified by intellectual capacity and legal training and experience for the federal bench.

He said he thinks all 32 Re-

Wall Street, New York City, owes its name to Peter Stuyvesant who, in 1652, as governor of the little Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam, ordered a palisade built on the site to protect the town from feared invasions by the British. The last portion of the wall was moved in 1699 and both sides of the street were quickly built up.

publicans would vote to send the nomination back to the Judiciary Committee for further consideration. "I know of no defectors," he said.

And, Dirksen added, half a dozen or so Democratic senators are prepared to speak against Morrissey's confirmation and even more Democrats can be expected to vote for returning the nomination to committee.

Senate approval of a presidential nomination requires a simple majority — 51 if all 100 senators vote. Similarly, a simple majority of those voting can send a nomination back to committee.

Should the Senate not act before adjournment, Johnson could give Morrissey a recess appointment. To take it, Morrissey would have to give up his $20,000-a-year municipal judgeship — while not being certain of Senate confirmation next year.

Mansfield sidetracked the Morrissey nomination Tuesday to call up the sugar quota bill and said the Senate's next order of business will be a $4.7-billion supplemental appropriation.

The Democratic leader reiterated that he is prepared to vote to confirm Morrissey.

Charge IRS Harassment Of Taxpayer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "Overnight someone hung an OCD number on me," said William M. Canaday, formerly second in command of the Kansas City Police Department, "and my life hasn't been the same since."

Canaday still is fighting a conviction he short changed the government about $2,000 on income taxes. He was the chief witness yesterday before an investigating committee of the U. S. Senate which has charged the Internal Revenue Service with harassment of taxpayers, particularly by electronic gadgetry and watching their mail.

The investigation of Canaday started almost five years ago when the Department of Justice and the IRS sent extra agents into Kansas City for a special drive on organized crime—OCD. The targets of the special effort and the investigative files on them were assigned OCD numbers.

Canaday charged the IRS with Gestapo tactics.

He recalled Everett Trost, a longtime IRS agent in Kansas City, first approached him in 1961 about his income taxes.

"I told him 'fine,'" Canaday testified. "If he would play back on his recorder what I said, it would show I wanted to co-operate."

"Did you say he had a recorder?" interjected Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., chairman of the Senate committee.

"I am sure he did, although I cannot prove it," Canaday said.

Canaday charged "They're still investigating me. Trost is still driving up and down the highway in front of my place."

Canaday was convicted in November, 1964, on two charges of evading federal income taxes and has appealed.

Mrs. Canaday testified the IRS agents checked on them at their grocery store, their tailor shop, her beauty parlor, with a man who sold them a cord of wood and the people who delivered their newspaper.

Kenneth R. Layne, a former police department lieutenant,

Benefits From United Fund

Salvation Army's Role for Humanity

The Salvation Army is part of United Fund because its purpose is to serve needy humanity, regardless of race, color or creed. For a hundred years now, this organization has been serving the lonely, needy and neglected people of the world. Because of the high motivation of the leaders, there has been no scandal or fear on its record. They serve devotedly and unselfishly.

The money from United Fund goes to sustain the Salvation Army here in Sedalia and Pettis County. It helps with the non-sectarian Golden Age Club. It provides emergency help to needy people. It cares for transients by providing a place to stay and a meal. If they are in need of clothes that are clean, they help with this problem. They counsel with delinquents in our society, offering friendship and understanding to those imprisoned or in trouble. If there is a disaster in the community, they are some of the first on the scene.

The Salvation Army is governed by an Advisory Board of local people. This Board is non-sectarian. Leaders come from nearly all our churches in Sedalia. Because of the type of work they do, The Army, through Captain Marjorie A. Weber, has been able to attract to its Board, some of the most able leaders in the community. Some feel, that of all the agencies in the community, The Salvation Army is best able to utilize its funds to help needy humanity.
